U.S. PROPOSES ABANDONMENT OF PARTITION

Expects UN Acceptance of Surprise Reversal of Palestine Stand.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, March 20—United States sources expressed confidence today the United Nations will accept the surprise American proposal to abandon the Palestine partition plan.

The reversal of American policy came with dramatic suddenness late yesterday. The United States now wants a temporary UN trusteeship over the embattled Holy Land. A special session of the UN assembly was asked immediately to approve the interim plan and consider a permanent solution.

Most delegates were stunned by the move and hurriedly cabled their governments for instructions. Russia, however, announced immediate opposition.

The Jewish Agency for Palestine called the move an "amazing reversal." The agency added that the Jews will resist trusteeship by force.

Arab delegates smiled and said little. They still demand one independent country in Palestine but welcomed the blow to partition.

The 11-nation security council will meet next Wednesday to start debate on the new American stand.

Was Strong Supporter

The United States was the strongest supporter of the partition plan when it was pushed through the assembly, 33 to 13, last Nov. 29. At that time the Soviet Union joined with the U. S. in one of the rare instances of American-Russian agreement within the UN.

It was understood here that the American decision came from the White House and was of cabinet level.

The American statement left a loophole for the possible reinstatement of the scheme to split the Holy Land into Jewish and Arab countries by next Oct. 1. However, a high UN official said bluntly: "This means the end of partition."

Reports and rumors that Washington was abandoning partition have been current here for some time but in each instance the state department has issued careful statements of denial.

Warren R. Austin, chief American delegate, presented the proposal at a private session of the Big Five powers and then to the council. The council was asked to call the special assembly session, endorse the interim trusteeship under the UN trusteeship council and instruct the UN Palestine commission to give up efforts to put through partition. The commission already has a small advance party in the Holy Land.

Austin anticipated Russian opposition but is understood to feel that the program is veto-proof. It was conceded that Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko might exercise the big power veto in the council to stop any of the three requests. However, alternate routes were open.

WARNS RUSSIA. Secretary of State George Marshall (above), speaks bluntly to Soviet Russia, warning the Communist encroachment upon free people can no longer go unchecked, as he addresses more than 10,000 persons at the University of California's charter day ceremonies in Berkeley, Calif. COURT AVERTS ATOMIC STRIKE

Injunction Bans Oak Ridge Workers from Leaving for 80 Days.

By The Associated Press

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 20—A threatened strike in an atomic bomb laboratory at Oak Ridge, Tenn., was averted yesterday when the government obtained an injunction banning a walkout for 80 days.

The court order, issued here by Federal Judge George C. Taylor, marked the first time national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley law had been invoked.

About 900 members of the AFL Atomic Trades and Labor Council were restrained from leaving their jobs at Oak Ridge National laboratory, and Carbide and Carbin Chemicals Corp., operator of the plant, was restrained from distubing the "status quo" of an existing labor contract with the union.

In recent Washington negotiations, the union claimed the workers were threatened with a wage cut. Carbide took over the laboratory March 1 from Monsanto Chemical Co. Monsanto had been paying the AFL workers higher wages than those received by CIO workers at a nearby atomic production plant, also operated by Carbide.

After the injunction was issued, Kenneth L. Scott, union spokesman, told reporters the union would "wait out the next eighty days."

"We will not negotiate away the privileges won by collective bargaining. They will have to legislate them away," he said.

The company's position was stated by Thomas E. Lane, industrial relations superintendent for Carbide's Oak Ridge plants.

"We hope that in the period of the next sixty days the several items now in dispute between the company and the union will be resolved," he said.

TAFT SPEAKS ON NATIONAL DEFENSE

BULLETIN

By The United Press

SPRINGFIELD, March 20—Sen. Robert A. Taft said today he would not oppose selective service legislation if President Truman provided proof that such "drastic action" was needed.

By The United Press

SPRINGFIELD, March 20—Sen. Robert A. Taft's campaign appearance here today marked another battle over foreign policy between the Republican party regulars and the faction led by Harold E. Stassen.

Sen. Taft spoke on air power and national defense before a luncheon meeting here. It was the first address by the presidential candidate since President Truman's request that congress enact temporary selective service controls.

The Ohio Republican, chairman of the senate GOP policy committee, has not yet said what he thinks of the President's proposal and renewed request for universal military training. He has opposed UMT.

Republican senate leaders at Washington announced yesterday that they will defer action a while on both the draft and UMT. Earlier Mr. Stassen told a Cleveland, O., audience that the President's program including the draft was "good as far as it went"

Electric, Phone Lines Hit In Marion Region

Public utility companies business establishments and home owners today were surveying storm damage that may run into the thousands in the wake of winds of near cyclonic intensity that swept Marion county Friday afternoon.

The high winds apparently were the tail end of the tornadoes that ravaged the midwest yesterday and blew themselves out over central and northern Ohio with damage in this state alone estimated to run in the millions.

Lashed by intermittent gusts for a five-hour period beginning shortly after noon the city and area suffered interruption of phone service, electric service and scattered damage to business places and private homes.

Hardest hit were the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. and the Ohio Public Service Co. as falling trees and branches took a heavy toll of power transmission and communication lines.

Phone Lines Hard Hit

Harry S. Fair, plant superintendent for the phone company's Marion district declared the company had been "terribly hard hit." Extent of the damage would not be fully known until Monday, he said. Long distance service was hurt the most, he said. Crews were being rushed into this area from other divisions in the state to restore service virtually paralyzed in the Celina district northwest of here.

The Ohio Public Service Co. line crews were out all night as the company pressed virtually all operating employes into service to restore electrical service to the Marion area.

Harold J. Grigsby, Marion division superintendent, said "the gale raised hob with us." He reported the storm damage widespread with the city area one of the hardest hit.

"The wind whipped so long it snapped the poles," he said. Damage in the city was scattered. In some sections, whole streets were without service for varying lengths of time as feeder lines were knocked out. In other sections individual homes were isolated as toppling branches crashed lead-in wires.

No section escaped, he reported, referring to the suburban areas services by the company. Green Camp, Prospect, Richwood and others all suffered interruption of service. It is impossible at this time to estimate fully the damage done yesterday afternoon he declared.

Business Places Hit

As the winds first tore through Marion shortly after noon, numerous business establishments felt its force. Plate glass windows at the Danner Buick Co. and McDaniel Motor Co. showrooms on West Center street shattered under whipping pressure of the gusts. Overhead signs flapped crazily, trash and refuse sailed high in the air. Pedestrians leaned into the winds as they made their way along the streets.

Rain squalls accompanying the first gusts were driven virtually horizontally, beating into the faces of pedestrians, soaking many as umbrellas were turned inside out by the wind.

Police during the afternoon reported at least 20 calls in a period from 12:42 p. m. until 7 p. m. from residents reporting storm damage. No one was reported injured from falling limbs or signs or coming in contact with down wires.

Calls were received from all sections of the city as the winds ran their course. Among the streets on which damage was reported were East Center street, Indiana avenue, Chenev avenue, Kenton avenue, Avondale avenue, Boone avenue, Wilson avenue and others.

Many Roofs Damaged

Damage to homes included shingles ripped from roofs, bricks and motar toppled from chimneys and panes of glass from windows. Police reported a call that a baby carriage parked on a West Center street sidewalk when the wind hit had disappeared, presumably moved by the wind. It was empty.

Traffic slowed down considerably as drivers felt their cars veer with the blasts. The state highway department garage reported route 23 blocked temporarily yesterday afternoon as a tree came down over the road between Marion and Waldo. Route 203 between Newman's and Prospect was also temporarily blocked until crews could remove a fallen tree. Phone service was out at the highway garage but reports were relayed in through the highway patrol.

County Engineer Walter W. Johnson reported a tree down across county road 136 south of the Children's Home and east of route 23. He said there might have been more but with interrupted phone service, reports from several sections of the county may not have come through.

Kenton Hit

The gale cut a wide swath through this area hitting virtually all communities, with Hardin county suffering a severe buf-

Two Boys Killed As They Work at Altar of Church

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 20—A freakish March storm that killed four persons and injured many others left Ohio counting damage in the millions today.

Wind slashed across the state at speeds of 55 to 90 miles an hour in mid-afternoon yesterday. A hard rain drove ahead of it.

A second storm struck in the Bethesda-Barnesville area at 6 p. m.

Worst of the first storm struck northwest Ohio, but its fringes extended to Cleveland and Cincinnati.

The dead:

Gerald Kill, 10, and Norbert Bonifas, 12, both of Landeck, 14 miles from Lima.

Edwin Drerup, Ottawa in Putnam county.

Walter Reed, 60, of Urbana, a Dayton Power and Light Co. lineman.

Young Kill and Bonifas were working at the altar of St. John's Catholic church at Landeck when the huge church steeple toppled through the building.

Drerup took refuge in a barn, which was flattened by the twisting wind.

Reed died in Urbana when a 2,300-volt high tension line fell on him.

There was property damage every place the storm struck. Communication lines dragged in the mud; most of the Western Union lines in the Toledo area were out for hours; barns, houses and industrial buildings were unroofed.

Power lines went out in several places. Bethesda and Barnesville still were without lights late last night. Coldwater, Botkins, Defiance, Bellevue, Van Wert and Terre Haute, near Urbana, reported power failures.

14 Planes Wrecked

Fourteen airplanes were wrecked at Van Wert airport. Witnesses said the field was virtually ruined and Wood County Sheriff Clarence Marsh estimated damage at $500,000.

In Ohio City (Van Wert county), 85 per cent of the buildings were reported damaged.

At Sandusky, on Lake Erie, seven children were hurt when the roof of the Campbell school collapsed. The wreckage trapped 35 students but they were released by breaking down a door.

The roof and a wall of the Daybrook Hydraulic Co. fell in on 75 persons at Bowling Green. Four were hurt.

The wind blew down the tower of the Ohio highway patrol station at Findlay and the 332-foot antenna of the FM radio station WCLT at Newark.

Damage was heavy in Fayette county. The Bloomingburg Methodist church was ruined and the Masonic building in the same village was damaged heavily. Homes and industrial buildings also were damaged.

Lloyd Sharp of Celina, president of the Sharp Canning Co., said damage to his plant at Ohio City would reach $250,000. Three buildings of the Holland Pioneer Mills, a feed making firm, were damaged there, too.

Other Communities Hit

Scores of communities reported damage of less colorful nature, including Delphos, Rockford, St. Henry, Norwalk, Fremont, Bellevue, Tiffin, Columbus, Springfield, Washington C. H., Urbana and Mansfield.

Thirty homes were damaged at Bethesda, the Red Cross said.

More than 10,000 ducks and their shed at the Foster duck farm at Wayne, near Bowling Green, were scattered into nearby fields.

At Mount Vernon Dr. C. L. Harmer, Knox county coroner and his wife escaped serious injuries when a tree toppled onto their automobile.

Many cases of cool thinking and action at the height of the storm highlighted reports from many sections.

In the Landeck church where two were killed, Sister Mary Pasquel grabbed three other children and pulled them into a closet. They were uninjured.

At McCartyville in Shelby county, other nuns led children to safety in the basement of the Sacred Heart church when the storm struck.

Can't Find Farmer After Wind Havoc

By The Associated Press

COSHOCTON, O., March 20—Neighbors and sheriff's deputies searched today for Lewis Cullison, 60, a farmer, after yesterday's tornadic winds wrecked his house and barn near Mohawk village.

His daughter, Mrs. Ronald Richcreek, 23, and her six-month-old son were found 70 feet from the house after the storm abated. She was still unconscious in a hospital today. The baby suffered a broken leg. Sheriff Jay Abbott said he would drag a stream near the Cullison property.

AT LEAST 5 KILLED IN CRASH OF PLANE

By The Associated Press

SOMERSET, Pa., March 20—At least five persons were killed today in the mid-air explosion of a two-motored transport airplane 10 miles from this mountainous western Pennsylvania community.

State police reported they found the bodies of two women and three men. State Police Capt. Andrew J. Hudock said:

"There may be more bodies. We don't know. The bodies were blown all over the place."

Hudock said one victim had been identified as George H. Armitage of Providence, R. I. He was believed to be the ship's pilot.

Residents in the area reported hearing a terrific noise and then saw the plane seemingly disintegrate in the air. The ship crashed atop a mountain, 3,000 feet north of the Pennsylvania turnpike. The impact of the crash blew a hole in the ground eight feet deep.

Hudock said the plane was traveling north.

Papers found scattered in the wreckage indicated the ship belonged to U. S. Airlines, Inc., St. Petersburg, Fla. However, Hudock said U. S. Airlines said they had no planes in this area.

BUS STATION TO MOVE MONDAY

Manager Obtains New Location on North Main Street, Near Patten Street.

The Marion terminal of the Greyhound bus lines will be moved to a new location Monday, it was announced today by K. E. Smith, terminal manager.

The terminal will be located in the property formerly known as "Vance's Drive In," located at 546 North Main street. Operation from the new terminal will begin at midnight Monday night, Smith said. Operations until that time will continue at the present terminal at 140 North State street.

The terminal site was purchased by Smith from Clyde Vance. The new site occupies 102 feet of frontage on the east side of North Main street and runs 165 feet back from the street, large enough to permit six of the biggest Greyhound buses to park, load, and discharge passengers without congestion. All parking, loading and unloading operations will be accomplished within the terminal grounds and will require no parking of buses on North Main street.

The terminal will offer waiting rooms, restaurant facilities, a news stand, fountain service, and rest rooms for passengers and a staff of eight persons will be required to operate the terminal on a round the clock basis. The exterior is floodlighted for night operation.

The new bus terminal may be reached by taking the North East loop bus of the MRT city line and getting off at the Patton street stop. City line buses pass the new terminal every 20 minutes.

Smith stated the new site was the only immediately available location in Marion of sufficient size to accommodate off-the-street loading and parking of buses.

The terminal serves Pennsylvania Greyhound, Great Lakes Greyhound, Columbus-Marysville, Galion-Mansfield Transit, and Servais Transit lines.

Lewis Accepts Invitation To Confer with Operators

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 20 — Coal operators today asked the federal district court to name an umpire for the miners' pension dispute that has caused a nationwide strike. Action came shortly after Miners' Chief John L. Lewis had agreed to meet with soft coal operators Monday in an attempt to reach a strike settlement.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 20 — John L. Lewis today accepted a government invitation to meet with coal operators Monday in an attempt to settle the current coal strike.

Lewis, however, said in accepting the invitation from Mediation Director Cyrus S. Ching, that:

"It is preposterous to assume that any progress will be made at your Monday meeting, as these men (negotiators for the operators) merely carry out the instructions of their principals."

Accepts with Reluctance

Lewis plainly accepted the invitation with reluctance. He said he did so out of a "desire to avoid any discourtesy" to Ching.

The mine union chief did not say whether he would appear in person at the conference. He said a "representative committee" would be on hand from the United Mine Workers.

The coal walkout has spread in a single week over almost the entire bituminous industry. It has caused the shutdowns of steel and other important industrial plants.

It is based on a dispute over a method of paying miners' retirement pensions out of the $30,000,000 miners' health and welfare fund.

Lewis contended in a memorandum to Ching that the operators invited to the Monday conference lack power to reach any agreement.

Before receiving this telegraphed invitation Lewis had another from the mine owners. But they said in their letter that if he wanted to discuss the pension demands with them he had to send the 350,000 idle miners back to digging coal first.

Ching told reporters "I will do everything I can to get coal mining resumed."

To Find Out Why

And Charles O'Neill, who acted as spokesman for the operators, said "we are trying to find out what this about—why we are on strike."

O'Neill said that the miners' walkout was not justified and he declared Lewis was being tricky about provisions of the contract signed last July.

But the operators made no immediate move to start court action. Under the Taft-Hartley law unions may be sued for breach of contract.

Lewis has charged on the other hand that the operators "dishonored" the agreement by refusing his pension demands. These are reported to be $100 a month for miners over 60 with 20 years' service.

PROPOSE RETURN OF TRIESTE TO ITALY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 20 — United States, Britain and France today proposed the return of the territory of Trieste to Italy through a major revision of the Italian peace treaty.

The proposal was made on behalf of the American government to the Russian and Italian embassies here.

Trieste is an important port city and ship building center on the Adriatic sea between Italy and Yugoslavia.

Under the Italian peace treaty, Trieste was established as a free territory under the protection of the United Nations.

Today's joint announcement of the western powers said this plan for an independent Trieste is not working out very well.

It said Yugoslavia already has virtually incorporated that area of the territory occupied by Yugoslav troops.

The proposal to "place the free territory of Trieste once more under Italian sovereignty" apparently is a major move by the western powers in Italian political strategy. The Italians are to hold a national election April 18 with a Communist bid for power the big issue.

Harbingers of Spring Revealed As Winter Performs Fadeout and New Season Arrives

By SCOTT McMURRAY

Spring, beautiful spring, arrived at 11:37 a. m. today, it says here. During this season a young man's fancy is supposed to lightly turn to thoughts of love, golf clubs, a new car, and tweed jackets. Actually it turns this year to thoughts of income tax, being drafted into the army, and the thought that the lawn will have to be mowed soon.

Spring has always been a favorite source of material for writers of songs, plays, and stories and has been viewed with such diverse points of view as Shakespeare's "Beware of the Ides of March" and Gilbert and Sullivan's "the flowers that bloom in the spring tra-la."

Spring in Paris

This season is heralded in many ways. In Paris the coming of spring is reflected in the women's fashions paraded on the Champs Elysees and the coming of the flower women to the market place by Louvre.

In England the bright green of Devonshire becomes even greener and the British people are seized with uncontrollable urges to take long walks at sundown in the air freshened by frequent spring showers. In happier times people from all over western Europe made spring pilgrimages to Holland to see the tulips in bloom.

In this country spring was saluted in the mid-west for many years by liberal dosage of the youth with a mixture of sulphur and molasses, "to thin the blood" your Grandma said.

Signs of Spring

Today's harbinger of spring has already appeared in Marion. Five convertible coupes were seen in the downtown district during the past 24 hours with their tops down and motorcyles are once more beginning to roar through the streets. In New England the surest omen is the appearance of yachtsmen at boat yards with caulking knives and paint brushes in hand.

Spring cannot come to the Ohio and Mississippi river valleys until word comes from Point Pleasant, W. Va., and St. Louis, Mo. These cities are the harbors of the great and gaudy excursion and showboats and until they announce the spring pilgrimage of these craft no true son of the river valleys will even admit spring is on the way. The first real harbinger of spring on the river is the music of an excursion boat calliope and until that melodious sound echoes through the hills and dales the heavy underwear season is still in force.

GAIN RECRUITS TO CUT TAXES

Senate Republicans Get New Support from Both Parties.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 20 — Senate Republicans gained new recruits today in their drive to cut income taxes $4,800,000,000.

Announcement by Senator Morse (R) of Oregon, that he intends to vote for it. And more Democrats pledged their support when the showdown comes Monday.

The senate agreed last night to vote on any remaining amendments and the bill itself starting at 5 p. m. Monday.

This agreement was reached after Republican leaders had spent nearly seven hours successfully fighting off a series of Democratic proposals to amend the bill.

Decision Significant

Morse's decision was considered significant. He was one of the two Republicans who last year voted against the second GOP tax cut bill which President Truman vetoed. And he also voted to sustain the veto.

However, the Oregon lawmaker told the senate yesterday that he now favors a reduction since it seems to be "the predominant will of the American people."

Senator Langer (R) of North Dakota, who joined Morse's vote last year, also has indicated that he plans to vote for the $4,800,000,000 measure.

Several Democrats also spoke up for the bill.

Moral Obligation

Senator George of Georgia, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, told the senate he feels "a very definite moral obligation" to vote for a tax cut. He added:

"I am willing to vote for this bill even if war comes tomorrow and we have to vote to increase taxes again."

And Senator Byrd of Virginia, took the same position. "If future developments require additional expenditures for national defense or otherwise, I will then support increased taxes," he said in a statement.

But Senator Connally (D) of Texas told a reporter he will vote against the bill and to sustain a veto. He said tax reduction now can't be justified in view of the possibility that extra billions may be required for military preparedness.

STUDENT CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

By The Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN, O., March 20 — James Singler of Sandusky, 21-year-old Bowling Green college student, faced manslaughter charges today in the fatal shooting of another student.

Patrolman Wayne Canfield filed the charges last night.

Lie detector tests showed Singler did not know the pistol which shot Charles Wenzler, 18, Centerburg, O., was loaded, authorities said.

The youth waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the Wood county grand jury. He furnished $3,000 bonds.

Singler was toying with a foreign pistol owned by a roommate Thursday, aimed out a window and pulled the trigger, he told authorities. Wenzler was struck in the head.

Prosecutor Floyd A. Coller disclosed the results of three and one-half hour lie detector test, to which Singler voluntarily submitted.

MARION

feting. Kenton was hit by winds reported in excess of 45 miles per hour with numerous business places and homes damaged.

Severe damage was reported in Ada, McGuffey, Alger and Forest with barns and sheds hardest hit. One barn at McGuffey was blown across the highway and scattered in a neighboring field. Full extent of the damage in that section was not immediately available as telephone service to rural communities was disrupted.

In Upper Sandusky, heavy rainfall and lightning accompanied the heavy winds. The town was without lights or power for about a half hour. Wind damage was scattered.

In Crestline, numerous light wires were reported down and the village traffic light system out of commission for several hours during the morning.

Power was off at Ibella for a period during the storm. Farmers reported roofs blown off of several barns and sheds and numerous trees down, fouling electric wires.

Wind damage was also reported in Bucyrus and Mt. Gilead where power was also disrupted and traffic halted by fallen trees. Power in some sections of Mt. Gilead will not be restored before Sunday it was reported. In Bucyrus, several cars were damaged by falling limbs and uprooted trees. Heavy rains accompanying the winds caused washouts on roads north and west of the city, the section in the Bucyrus area reported hardest hit.

Other Telephone Damage

Harry S. Fair, Ohio Associated Telephone Co. plant superintendent here said the Forest and Arlington districts northwest of here were among the hardest hit. First reports received on the damage were that from five to six hundred poles were down in those areas.

Reports received at the district office here from the neighboring Celina district said that eight exchanges including Minden, Spencerville were virtually isolated with trunk line service cut off.

The district office there reported a reserve supply of some 700 to 800 poles is expected to fall short of the number needed to replace those damaged. He reported crews from company divisions as far south as the Ohio River territory may be rushed into that area to reestablish service.

Long distance lines were the first to be restored. Falling trees and limbs were the worst damage causes, he said. Soft condition of the ground was also given as a factor in poles being toppled by the blasts.

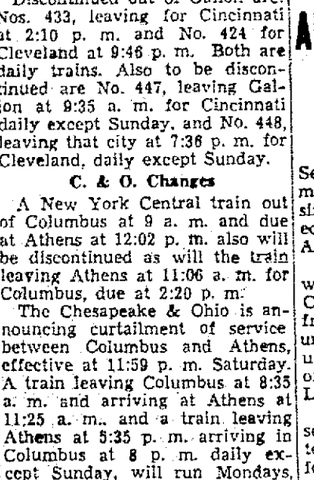
MARKS 104TH BIRTHDAY

By The Associated Press

McCONNELSVILLE, O., March 20—Mrs. Kate Miller Stanbery celebrated her 104th birthday today. She planned a quiet dinner tonight with her only living daughter, Mrs. Andrew Timberman of Columbus, and a few grandchildren.

About one-third of the American people live in areas without public libraries.



HAS HEAD START. It may not fit, but a quart-sized cap looks mighty cute on pint-sized Johnnie Matterson, 7-month-old newcomer to the U. S. Johnnie arrived in New York from Neurnberg, Germany, aboard the transport General Callen, which brought 74 war brides. His future home will be in Indianapolis.

SWANS FORM HEART—Swans in winter quarters at Theodore Wirth park, Minneapolis, form a near-perfect heart reflection in their pool. Maybe the approach of spring and the mating season had something to do with it.

MUSIC FOR VIDEO. James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, blows a few notes on a trumpet (March 19) after signing a new contract with the radio networks. Under the new contract live music will be permitted on television programs and Petrillo's notes were recorded on a newsreel which was used the next day. The trumpet was presented to Petrillo by Frank E. Mullen, vice president of National Broadcasting Company.

ANOTHER MARSHALL ADDRESS AWAITED

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, March 20 — Secretary of State Marshall makes his second public address since President Truman's preparedness talk to congress in Los Angeles today.

Coming from Berkeley, Calif., where he bluntly warned that Communist encroachment upon free peoples can no longer go unchecked, the secretary is scheduled to speak at the University of California at Los Angeles at Los Angeles at 5 p. m. (EST).

He will be talking at an observance of the university's charter week, commemorating its founding 80 years ago. Marshall and Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, university president, are due to arrive by plane from Berkeley at 1:30 p. m. (EST). They will be met by Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, U.C.L.A. provost.

Presumably Secretary Marshall today will again use the occasion for exploring American foreign policy. He will speak in the open-air theater on the U.C.L.A. campus. Tonight he is to speak to a U.C.L.A. alumni association banquet in Beverly Hills, then return to Washington in the former presidential plane, the Sacred Cow.

Yesterday when he spoke at the university's Berkeley campus, Secretary Marshall compared the "dangerous situation" in Europe to "the highhanded and calculated procedure of the Nazi regime," called for prompt enactment of the European recovery plan and in his one soothing word for Russia said that "our policy is to stand firm on basic principles but at the same time to keep the door open for any general conciliatory moves."

Wallace Overshadows Truman in Red Press

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 20 — President Truman's address to congress Wednesday did not get prominent display in the Moscow press.

But the radio speech last night of Henry A. Wallace, third party United States presidential aspirant, did.

The President's message was covered in about a hundred words.

Today Moscow's dailies devoted around 1,500 words to Wallace's reply to Mr. Truman.

Silver Fame, the 8-1 better favorite owned by Lord Bicester, fell the first time around at Becher's Brook, the treacherous water jump and hedge.

Sheila's Cottage, a 50 to 1 shot owned by J. Proctor, won by a length over First of the Dandies.

Happy Home was fourth and Platypus was fifth.

Judge Relents, Allows Students Vacations

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, March 20—Three Ohio State university students involved in a tavern brawl with a policemen a week ago were enjoying their spring vacations today.

At first Municipal Judge John M. Mathias had threatened to make John Csuri, 23, of Cleveland, Max Haines, 23, of Columbus, and Burns O. Dye, 20, of Marysville, spend their vacation in jail.

He relented yesterday, however, suspending the workhouse sentences and sending them home with severe reprimands and $10 fines.

Seven other students were fined for their part in the brawl.

TWO DRIVERS FINED

Laurel R. Yant of near Cardington, and Robert E. Ulery of 239 Fairview avenue, both arrested on speding charges, were fined $15 and costs in municipal court today. Laurel Yant was arrested at 8 a. m. on Mt. Vernon avenue, and Robert Ulery on North Main street at 7:34 a. m. today.

ATOMIC INFLUENCE ON CROPS STUDIED

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 2—The government prepared today to break new ground in the peacetime use of atomic energy in research for information on its direct effect upon growing crops.

The atomic energy commission and the agriculture department announced jointly that the AEC will provide funds for research on the influence of radioactive materials upon plant growth.

The study will be undertaken immediately in a number of agricultural experiment stations co-operating with the bureau of plant industry, soils and agricultural engineering.

Scientists have long known that all soils are naturally radioactive to some extent. The tests are designed to show whether applications of radioactive materials will improve plant growth and, if so, to what extent.

The research will also be aimed at determining whether radioactivity will affect the time of maturity of the plant and whether the crop itself will have a significant degree of radioactivity.

The two government agencies said reports of exceptionally good crops near Nagasaki, where the second atomic bomb was dropped in August, 1945, "have stimulated interest in the problem." They added, however, that investigations by American and Japanese scientists have not shown any basis for the claim that radiation from the bomb benefitted crops.

Czechs To Work Sunday, Celebrating "Victory"

By The Associated Press

PRAGUE, March 20 — Workers in Czechoslovakia will go to their jobs as usual tomorrow instead of enjoying a Sunday rest.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

"BEING wrung through a mangle would have been a blissful experience compared to what I've experienced in the last few minutes," I told Dicky hurriedly in muted tones. "Let's hurry as fast as we can to the kitchen. I'll tell Katie that you have a 'hush hush' message from Father, and must see me alone for five minutes. I'll tell her not to delay her meal, to have Mr. 'K.' and Georges go on without us."

"Yes," Dicky jeered, but in a whisper, as he obeyed my injunction for haste and rushed me along the corridor, "I can see our Katie serving a meal without you presiding over the coffee urn, if you're within a mile of the place. But the darling old graduate of a 'detecatuff correspondence school' will revel in keeping everything back because of work for Dad. It won't concern her a bit that she's keeping royalty and a 'big detecatuff' from their fodder."

"Stop being 'as funny as you can,'" I gasped, almost out of breath from the pace at which Dicky was swooping me along, and suppressed laughter at his nonsense. "I won't be able to tell you anything, if you keep on."

"Sorry, sorry!" he retorted, but there was no penitence in his voice. However, he slowed his pace a bit, and did not speak again until we had reached the kitchen, and Katie.

"Vell, you two make pretty goot time," she grudgingly admitted as she left her post of anxious waiting by the kitchen stove. "But vere dose oder people? Dey younger dan you two. Dey ought to be here first. Me, I don't care eff vun ees a keeng un de oder a beeg detecatuff, I don't keep my dinner vaiting for nobuddy."

Slow Progress

"Look here, Katie," Dicky said hastily, and I knew he was afraid that Mr. "K.," for all his intentionally slow progress, might appear at any second, "in the first place don't throw our advanced years in our faces, and in the second place here's something I forgot to tell you. The 'Chief,' Mrs. Graham's father, you know, has a 'hush hush' message for her which I must give her at once. We'll be back in five minutes."

He took my arm and turned me around toward the door, and I sent my injunction to Katie over my shoulder.

"Go ahead with your meal, Katie," I said. "Don't wait for us. We'll hurry back as fast as we can."

"Vot you teenk I am?" she retorted, and her voice was almost a bellow. "Me, I no serve no meal in dees house ven you een eet, und not seeck abed, oonless you een your place. I don't care who coompany ees. Dey can vait. I spik nice to dem, und I feex chairs for dem, but I no serve meal till you come back."

I had no chance to send back an answer to her challenge, for Dicky had rushed me into the hall. From there he raced me down to my little study, mainly, I knew, because in that direction there would be no chance of coming face to face with Mr. "K." and Georges.

He swung open the door, propelled me inside, put me into an easy chair, and held up his hand in a signal for silence.

"Not a word now!" he admonished me. "Relax! I don't care a dam how long Georges cools his heels and holds on to his gnawing hunger, and it's all in the day's work for 'K' And Katie is reveling in being a helper on the 'hush hush' message. So get your breath before you start talking."

I was glad to obey him. If only for the chance of getting my story of Georges' astonishing revelation into telling shape. But at last, I straightened in my chair, and faced my husband, putting my news in the first paragraph.

"Georges says he must postpone his wedding with Olive, perhaps altogether, altogether, until he has seen Mary," I said. "He thinks Mary is still in love with him, and that her flight, down into Dixie to the Bailey clan, between her duty as [illegible] and her love for him."

'49 Lincolns, Mercurys, Fords Coming Next Week

By DAVIS J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, March 20 — The first 1948 automobiles — Ford, Lincoln and Mercury models, will be given private showings next week. First to see the new vehicles will be dealers and newsmen who chronicle the industry's activities. They get a company-approved look on Monday.

The new cars, initial fruits of a huge investment by the Ford Motor Co., will be shown publicly some time in April. Around June 1 the 1949 Ford models will be introduced.

The new Lincoln and Mercury models already are in production. When the new Fords begin rolling from assembly lines the most drastic and expensive changes Ford has made since 1927 will have been completed.

It was 21 years ago this spring that Ford switched from the historic model T to the model A, and went out of production for about six months. Relatively little time has been lost in the switch over to the new Lincoln and Mercury models and the change in the Ford models will be accomplished in six weeks or less.

Details of the 1949 Lincoln, Mercury and Ford styling still are guarded secrets. Those who have seen them, however, agree with company assertions that the cars are "completely new from road to roof." Generally, the styling is expected to follow the "new look" emphasized in most new postwar cars.

In retooling for the three new lines Ford has spent close to $100,000,000. Production lost in the change-over will represent another huge sum, perhaps more than half that amount.

Huge Expansion Sums

But this is only a part of the expense involved in the postwar rehabilitation of the great billion dollar Ford empire. Ford spent $103,000,000 in this effort last year. Barring a business recession it will spend at least $100,000,000 a year for the next five years on plant expansion and improvement.

Actually the Ford rehabilitation program has been under way for many months. It began to take shape long before the death nearly a year ago of the elder Henry Ford, who founded the industrial colossus.

Ford made 736,552 Ford, Lincoln and Mercury passenger cars and 347,532 commercial vehicles last year. It expects to make more than a million cars this year and considerable more trucks than it produced in 1947. The truck line was revamped several months ago.

Although less has been heard about it in recent months "beat Chevrolet" still is very much in the thinking of Henry Ford II, youthful head of the Ford Motor Co. The complete redesigning of the Ford cars had this as one of its objectives.

To avoid a production-curtailing shutdown Chevrolet made few changes in its 1948 models; the switch-over was made with only a few days assembly line shutdown. Most industry observers believe a drastic change, not long after the new Ford appears, is in Chevrolet planning.

Has Chevrolet Orders

Against this, however, is the fact that Chevrolet, top producer and distributor in the industry, has more than 1,000,000 unfilled passenger car orders on its books.

Its energetic sales chief, Tom Keating, doesn't intend to lose any of these to Ford or any other competitor.

No automobile maker has yet shown that a complete model change can be carried out without an assembly line shutdown of some length. There are some industry reporters, however, who believe Chevrolet may have worked out a plan to do it in much faster time than is customary.

GRANGE CEREMONIES

BUCYRUS — Thirty candidates representing the various Granges in the county will receive the third and fourth degrees of the Grange tonight at ceremonies in Mt. Zion school. North Robinson degree team will conduct the third degree work and Whetstone will exemplify the fourth degree.

There were other boosters for nominees William Powell, Michael Redgrave and John Garfield.

Miss Russell, Colman and "Gentleman's Agreement" won in a poll conducted by the trade paper Daily Variety, of more than 200 of the 1,933 academy members whose votes select winners. Other toppers in the poll: Director Elia Kazan for "Gentleman's Agreement;" supporting actress Celeste Holm, same picture; supporting actor, Edmund Gwenn, "Miracle on 34th Street."

Some 6,200 movie workers and fans will assemble in the massive, tan-walled auditorium for ceremonies starting at 8:15 p. m. (Calif. daylight time.) A center section of balcony loge seats was removed to provide newsreel coverage for the first time of the actual presentations.

A Tale of Two Women and a Friendly Bank

The other day we heard this story about two successful business women. Several years ago they opened a small beauty shop. They were the only two operators. Both were interested in success—both decided that the way to win customers, and hold them, is to give service unstintingly, use the best equipment and greet each customer as though they were really glad to see them. The formula worked.

In a few years, they got to the point where the idea of a chain of beauty shops wasn't "beyond the pale." They visited their local bank, told their story and received the necessary loan for expansion. Today these two women are not only financially independent but they've learned how easy it is to make money, once you "catch on."

Would a loan help you to expand your business to the point where you could be highly successful? Think that question over. Then come in and have a frank talk with us.

Making Democracy Work

CAN representative democracy make the right decisions at the right moment in history, or must it wait for events to make decisions for it?

The Chief Executive says there is a national crisis. It's possible he may be saying so for his own political advantage. Or he may be saying so because he has been convinced by his advisers that it is time to perform his executive function of leadership by sharing responsibility with congress. Members of congress must make the right decision. Beyond them, their constituents must make the right decision.

Two key industries, coal and meat-packing, are closed down by strikes. Other strikes are in prospect. A few labor leaders—and beyond them, the members of their unions—must decide whether work stoppages can be inflicted at this time on a country whose strength is the last remaining hope of human beings trying to resist statism. They have the power to cripple the United States, if they choose to do it.

The producers of the country—everybody whose energy and skill are needed for production—must decide how hard they should work when the chips are down. They must understand why only the strong can be free and only the productive can be strong. They must understand that this is their country to do with as they choose—that the decisions they make will alter the course of history.

There has been no single moment in the 150-odd years of American freedom when defeatism and uncertainty about the future were greater than they are now. Everything conceivable has happened to challenge the people's confidence in themselves and their leadership. Much of it has been planned that way by enemies trying to weaken the United States. Much of it is the result of bad practice in the art of self-government.

The American people have only one defense—their own collective judgment. If it isn't good enough after a century and a half to cope with the problems of the postwar world, the jig's up. If their judgment cannot flow into congress, if congress cannot channel it into legislative authority for sound executive action and if executive action, in turn, cannot find the authority it needs in time to be effectual, the sovereignty of the people of the United States is what despots always have called it—a fantastic dream and no match for dictatorial methods.

This is the only major society left which dares to believe its people are wiser than a hierarchy of political yes-men. It's the only major society left which dares to believe the people are resourceful enough and intelligent enough to make the decisions of government.

It is not a time to take representative democracy for granted and to second-guess the other fellow. It's a time for each beneficiary of freedom to think earnestly about his obligation to make democracy work by sharing all of its responsibilities.

Look Out for the Hook

AN OUTFIT called the "National Committee for Eisenhower & Unity" is urging Republicans and Democrats to pool their strength in a drive to put Gen. Eisenhower in the White House.

It's a safe bet that putting Eisenhower in the White House is only the bait on the hook in this proposition. The hook is unity. The troubled waters of the last few years have been full of hooks called "unity." The shrewd fishermen on the other end have baited it with everything in the book and have caught quite a few suckers.

Their ultimate aim is to get rid of the two-party system in the United States. The kind of politics they have in mind would be more fun if there were a one-party monopoly. Voters then would have a single slate of candidates. Free elections would be a mockery, the same as they were in Italy under Mussolini, Germany under Hitler and still are in Russia under the dictatorship of the Communist party.

Unity is a fine word, a lovely word with sympathetic overtones of cooperation and harmony. But it's not a fine word in politics. Whenever it's used, look for the hook, which is a one-party dictatorship. If Gen. Eisenhower is as smart as he has been on other occasions, he will tell the outfit using his name for bait to get itself another boy.

Privileges and Obligations

LEE DONALD STERN of Cleveland, a conscientious objector, has asked the government to cancel the action restoring his political and civil rights. He has decided he can't live up to the obligations of citizenship and plans to settle in Paraguay.

The obligations of American citizenship are few, much less exacting than in most nations. The American citizen should vote, he must pay taxes and he is subject to wartime orders. In return he receives privileges given in few other nations. He is free to travel where he wishes, work at whatever trade he chooses, worship as he pleases and say and write what he pleases, within the limits of libel laws.

Objector Stern hopes to find in Paraguay the privileges of citizenship without their obligations. He may be disillusioned the next time Paraguay gets into a scuffle with Bolivia.

UMT Bobs Up Again

How It Would Operate in Providing Military Training for 618,000 Young Men Annually.

THE President's speech Wednesday brought universal military training back to the headlines after the subject had been quiescent for week.

Last July the President's advisory committee on UMT, headed by Dr. Carl T. Compton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, adopted a report favoring the plan, with certain reservations. On July 26 the house military affairs committee sent a UMT bill to the house rules committee to be placed on the legislative schedule. That was a few days before congress adjourned for the summer.

The bill has since been stalled in the rules committee. The chairman, Representative Forest A. Harness of Indiana, says he has been subjected to constant and intense pressure to schedule the measure for house action. But he points out that while he has reservations about the bill, the committee could override him if it wished and the house, if it wished, could override the committee by obtaining 218 signatures on a discharge petition. Such a petition, he recalls, drew only 13 signatures when circulated in the house.

Whether the President's speech has given the bill the necessary impetus to bring it to a vote will be ascertained in the next few weeks. The senate version of the bill, meanwhile, has never got past its armed services committee.

AS drafted by the Department of the Army, UMT would require registration of every male citizen who has reached his 17th but not his 20th birthday. All in this age group would constitute the first UMT trainees, and subsequent registrants would enter training upon reaching 18 or on graduation from secondary school, whichever occurs later. Youths graduating from secondary schools before they are 18 could, with parental consent, enroll for training at 17.

Enrollees in UMT would be available for training only. They would not be available for combat or other operational requirements which might arise during peace. They would not be subject to the Articles of War but would be governed by a specially drawn code of conduct administered by special trainee tribunals.

It is estimated that 618,000 trainees would be available annually. There would be no exemptions except those unfit for military service. Enrollees would be allowed to choose their type of training, in so far as possible.

The training would be for one year, divided into six-month periods. The first six months would be devoted to general subjects given all military trainees. The second six months would be devoted to particularized training looking forward to one of several choices. These include enlistment in the regular service, the national guard, the enlisted reserve corps, entrance into one of the service academies, or serve in the enlisted reserve corps with attendance at a college giving ROTC training.

NEW enrollees would start their year's training in quarterly groups. Registration, preliminary examination and selection would be handled by a civilian agency but the training itself would be in charge of the armed services. Enrollees having religious scruples would be assigned to noncombat units. Illiterates would receive instruction offering them the equivalent of a fourth grade education. In hardship cases, dependency benefits would be authorized.

A 40-hour training week would prevail, with a minimum of six hours weekly devoted to physical education. One hour a week would be devoted to current events and Wednesday and Saturday afternoons would be given over to recreation.

Training cadres would be selected with a view to getting men especially qualified to handle 18-year-olds. Trainees who demonstrated leadership ability might serve as instructors in the second six months of their year.

Trainees would not be paid but would be provided with a $30 monthly allowance to buy necessities and incidentals not otherwise furnished. Only emergency furloughs would be granted in the first six months, but there would be holiday and weekend passes. Trainees would be granted furloughs in the second six months, drawing ration allowances while away from their station.

TRAINING would be conducted principally on large permanent military posts in areas where the climate would permit year-round activity. Trainees would receive the same hospital care provided for the regular army. In cases of enrollees requiring hospitalization 90 days or more beyond the extent of their year's training, the U S Employe Compensation Commission would assume responsibility.

UMT trainees would wear uniforms similar to those of regular army men except for a distinctive insigne or article of uniform not yet decided upon. Upon completion of training enrollees would be authorized to retain the same articles of uniform regular army dischargees retain.

There has been much dispute over the cost of the program, its opponents saying it would cost $6,000 a year per man to train 1,000,000 men. The Army Department says this figure is far out of line. It points out that it cost $1,852,309 to train 646 teen-age soldiers in the experimental UMT battalion at Fort Knox. This figures $2,867 per year per man—and these men were drawing $100 instead of $30 a month.

Army, navy and air force officials told the advisory commission the training could be accomplished for $1,700,000,000 a year. Since then that figure has been revised to $1,500,000,000.

Is Berlin Next?

By Raymond Moley

COMMUNIST influences working through German-language newspapers suggest that the Western Powers may evacuate Berlin. This is taken, in our present state of apprehension, to mean that the next Soviet move may be claim the German capital. This line of Soviet propaganda apparently has been going on a long time, since letters received here from German leaders have for some time expressed the fear that the evacuation may be contemplated.

MOLEY

The idea that some Russian move in Berlin may be considered cannot be wholly dismissed. If further expansion is planned, Berlin may be the next point of pressure.

In considering this possibility, it may be useful to recall the exact situation of Berlin. It is virtually an inter-Allied island within the Russian-occupied area. To the east, 25 miles away, is the Polish frontier. The British zone at its closest point is 100 miles distant.

Within greater Berlin are four zones. The Russian part contains the university and the major libraries. The British zone has much of the remains of the engineering and electrical industries. The American zone contains some of the best-preserved suburbs of the city. And the French zone is a sector of diversified industry.

Possible Procedure

If Russia is determined to take over all of Berlin, what might be the course of action?

One method might be an ultimatum followed by an attempt to push out the troops and administrative setups of the three Western Powers. This is hardly likely at the moment because such a move would be an act of war.

Another procedure would be to make traffic between Berlin and the western zones practically impossible. This would immediately invite retaliation which would be serious for the inhabitants and for the Russian occupying forces. All of Berlin's industry, as well as most of the Russian zone outside the city, is dependent on coal from the Ruhr. Russia hardly could gain by such a move.

A third move might be the fostering of a revolt within the city, followed by the emergence of a stooge German Communist government. In such an event, there would be no reason for evacuation of the Western Powers' troops and administrators. Again, any move by a Communist political group in the western zones would meet physical resistance, and that also might lead to war.

It is more likely that for the time being Russia intends to carry on propaganda designed to frighten non-Communist German politicians and trade unions and to win them away from the West. Such methods already have had some success.

In the nationwide conventions of the Social Democrats, there were sharp differences between the representatives from the Russian zone and the others. Differences have been even sharper within the Democratic party. A former Democratic reichminister, Kuelr, was ousted from office in the party at a recent meeting in Frankfurt because, it was charged, he was too pro-Russian.

No one can tell from day to day where the bear's paw will fall. But there are more likely places than Berlin.

Saving Babies

Pertussis, medical name for whooping cough, is serious, particularly for very young children. Almost half the fatalities occur in youngsters of seven months or younger. The highest death rate from the disease is in the rural areas, in part a reflection of the fact that nearly twice as many people depend on each country doctor as on each city M.D. The disease passes easily from child to child, affecting nearly half the exposed susceptibles in schools and almost all within the average family. Consequently, small infants need special protection to hold off the disease, if possible, till they are strong enough to stand it.—O S U. Science and Agriculture.

From Red Flannels To White, It's Spring

Tomorrow is the first day of spring.

So long is the season when the sap does what the cost of living has been doing all winter.

Yes sir, there is an unmistakable freshness in the air, the hunting aroma of dogwood and daffodils and spring onions.

Why, seed catalogs have even replaced the Kinsey Report as the nation's favorite reading.

"For spring is when a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of beck and batting averages.

Our hearts are light, our spirits gay. Only the horrid coal bills remain to remind us of winter.

The Chronic Invalid

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, March 20, 1938. James G. Daly of Columbus, editor of a trade magazine, was elected head of the "Nation's Small Business council," a permanent organization developed from the preceding month's noisy conference of "little business men" with President Roosevelt and Secretary of Commerce Roper, in Washington, D. C.

John F. Johnston, 84, died of infirmities of age at his home near Richwood.

Dr. and Mrs. Z. B. Houghton of Girard avenue left for a visit with Dr. Houghton's sister, Mrs. C. P. Longwell in Los Angeles, Calif.

The marriage of Miss Rosina Starmer of north of Marion and Bernard Brooks of Girard avenue took place in the Prospect Street Methodist church, with the pastor, Rev. Henry Maag reading the ceremony.

The Sunday Creek Coal team went into first place with 2,919 points and Lee Schuler and Art Wintersteller took third place in the doubles with a score of 1,220 in the twenty-second annual state Knights of Columbus bowling tournament at Fremont.

The largest audience of the season attended one of a series of Sunday afternoon concerts given under the management of Miss Bessie Todd, at Galion. Funds from a free will offering were to be used to pay the balance on a concert grand piano at the Galion High school.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, March 20, 1928. Spring arrived clothed in sunlight and promising at least a sample of her incomparable weather. Winter retired reluctantly with a liberal snowfall that threatened to blanket the city to considerable depth.

"If Christ Came to Marion" was the sermon topic of Rev. J. J. Tisdall, Mansfield evangelist, in a revival service at Central Christian church. Twenty-seven conversions were reported at the services, which had been in progress a little more than a week.

After leading throughout the first three-quarters of the game the Isaly Dairies were defeated by the World Famous Indians at LaRue by a score of 39 to 27. Applegett, Penry, Minard, Tschanen and Hinklin made up the Marion team.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Brady and Charles Hemminger, which took place the preceding September at Columbus, was announced.

Members of the Kooking Klub were entertained at the home of Miss Edna Sautter on Sargent street.

Miss Frances A. Morris, 66, died at her home near Rienwood.

Scanning The Record

By George E. Sokolsky

THE tremendous barrage of war propaganda is designed to arouse the American people to the truth, long undisclosed, that the United States, in spite of the tremendous sacrifices of our people, did not win the last war. A war is only won when the peace is won. We won battles, but we lost the peace. We lost it at Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam and San Francisco. We did not lose it in Prague a week ago; we lost it in the White House during the war.

SOKOLSKY

So, we have to face the cold fact that we may have to start all over again. That is the meaning of the Forrestal conference at Key West; it is the meaning of President Truman's sudden speech to the congress; it is the meaning of all the excitement.

Soviet Russia for a year has been engaged in cold war with the United States. The objective of that war was the conquest of Central Europe, North China and Manchuria and inroads into western Europe via Italy and France. The two conflicting forces were, on behalf of Soviet Russia, the Cominform, the International Communist party, existing in every country; on behalf of the United States, ERP or the Marshall plan and the United Nations.

Russian Gains

Soviet Russia made definite progress during the cold war. She moved her line westward from the Oder to the Elbe, including in her area Hungary and Czechoslovakia; in China and Korea, the Communist forces made great strides. However, the program has not been altogether successful. France resisted inroads and remarkably produced a sound government. Italy remains uncertain until April 18. Korea has not been conquered. The United States and Great Britain have not been pushed out of Berlin. Chiang Kai-shek has stood like Gibraltar when it was expected he would crumble like dust. Nevertheless, the Russians have shown great strength, a definite creative force, a decision to produce a universal state, at whatever cost, in Europe and Asia. This Eurasion state is still in the making.

The role of the United States has been complex. Politically it has not been possible for those in charge of government to admit that the whole of Roosevelt's foreign policy was a tragic, costly and perhaps irreparable mistake. There in control of government were his coadjutors in error. They tried to save what they could of it, but day by day, Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam, and San Francisco plague them, particularly the idiotic Morgenthau plan. The dual plan in Palestine, the double-dealing with Chiang Kai-shek. The Marshall plan of economic assistance became involved in the Truman doctrine, the latter sound if also applied to China, the former sound only if a political union developed in western Europe.

Nevertheless, strides were made in American policy. The people discovered that the build-up given Stalin and Soviet Russia in this country since 1933 has been false and damaging to America. While national consciousness has not been aroused to a fervor equal to that of Soviet Russia, the American people have rediscovered their own country. Communists have no longer a free ride in the United States or in Great Britain or France. Fellow-travelers are marked foul.

UN Losing Prestige

Secondly, the United Nations has proved a failure, as some of us foretold it is capable neither of making the peace nor of preventing war. It has degenerated into a talkfest. The American people, while not ready to give it up, place less dependence upon it. Internationalism no longer is popular. This country is on the defensive. If we have to fight again, we shall fight for the United States of America. That is a tremendous gain.

Finally, we have come through the aftermath of the war, economically sounder than almost anyone anticipated. And that is what counts. The next war, like the last, will be an industrialists' war. Whoever can produce the means of destruction in the greatest quantities and of the most devastating quality will win in the end. Therefore, we need not fear—that is, if once we set our minds upon the target. Our target for a long time to come will be Soviet Russia.

This is what, in simple terms, President Truman is trying to tell us.

Expensive Ohio

Ohio, which is 35th in area among the 48 states, is fifth in population and is rapidly being overtaken by Texas, according to statistics published by the Book of the States. The rank of the first six states in population is New York, Pennsylvania, California, Illinois, Ohio and Texas.

From the standpoint of total revenue, Ohio is third among the states, with New York and California ahead of it. Illinois and Pennsylvania, the other two states which outrank Ohio in population, both collect smaller revenues—and are both outstripped, incidentally, by Washington, which last year collected almost as much as Ohio—$498,000,000 as against Ohio's $522,971,000. Ohio also was third in total expenditures, but again was pressed by Washington with $448,835,000 against Ohio's $463,403,000.

In one category, Ohio is without any close competitor. It is the only state supporting more than two colleges or universities. Including the support it gave to Wilberforce university, $1,690,369, the state spent $54,446,835 on higher education in six universities under its current appropriation bill. All other states, except Florida and Indiana, support only one state university. Florida and Indiana support two.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Home, 1948 Sweet Home

There isn't any place like home,
As it is built today;
It is so simple and so small
It's never in the way!
Man wants but little here below...
A place to hang his hat...
And if he has about ten grand
He'll get just room for that!

II.

Oh, give me just a little hut
That I can call my own...
A little something like the booth
That's labeled "TELEPHONE",
Just four walls and a ceiling with
Perhaps a skimpy floor,
With anchor out to windward just
In case spring breezes roar!

III.

I seek a "grey home in the West"—
I'll take one in the East
Or even in the North or South;
I care not in the least,
So long as it's the modern type
And has a roost or perch—
But costs about the same as it
Once cost to build a church.

IV.

A cosy little cottage, ah,
On this my heart is set.
And I am very certain it
Is all that I will get.
The walls may be transparent and
Askew may be the stars,
But who would ask for something more?
We ain't all millionaires!

V.

A humble home, sweet home, is all
I seek, for pity's sake,
And if the cellar walls don't leak
It will be quite a break.
The plumbing may be hit or miss
And not exactly chrome;
It may not work except at times,
But still a home's a home!

VI.

Mid pleasures and mid palaces
A man may roam, and yet
Yearn for a little bungalow—
And take it dry or wet;
For me the lowly cottage thatched
Will absolutely do.
With one nail in the thatches and
AN OUTSIDE CHANCE OF TWO!

"FOR RENT—Artist's paradise, uptown off 5th 10 rooms, 4 baths, garden enchanting arranged, furniture attractive and gay. Kitchen is canary with piano. A baby's grand in every room except the baby's. $700 a month. W 2-6040.—Newspaper adv.

Birds Calls

By TRUMAN TWILL

For the last six months this part of the country has been blessedly free from the incessant yeeping of our feathered friends, who either were spending the winter in the south—the cowards—or were freezing their tails off like everybody else and didn't have anything to sing about.

But now it's starting again—robins burbling, cardinals giving out with wolf whistles, sparrows yapping, catbirds making the welkin ring with their artificial bird calls. It looks like another tough summer.

Woodpeckers will practice snare-drumming lessons on telephone poles and eavespouts, as usual. Pigeons will moo and be a menace underfoot and overhead. Bluebirds, instead of staying around the corner out of sight and mind, will dart here and there like jet-propelled shuttlecocks.

Mourning doves will pair up and moan and groan while people are trying to be happy. Screech owls will wait until everybody is relaxed and comfortable, then give out with the harrowing death rattles. Bluejays will whoop-screech, and hurl themselves through the air like a lot of Sunday pilots.

Wrens will chatter and squeak. Starlings alternately will fight overhead like rowdy children, or parade solemnly on the ground like small-town undertakers managing the last rites for a leading citizen. Humming birds will defy all the laws of gravity with their silly performances and distract tired businessmen taking Sunday afternoon naps in hammocks.

Chicken hawks will soar and teeter a mile high, giving the twitters to earth-bound watchers, and orioles will swing in their silly hammocks in a stiff breeze until it's enough to make a human being sick. Bob-whites will tempt passersby to come hither—a perfectly ridiculous proposition. Can't they see we're on our way to work?

There will be baby robins falling out of nests built in places where no nests should be, bird scratching in metal spouting at 5:30 a. m., crows flying into sunsets and spoiling the view, and the usual incredible performances of seagulls to distract honest people who decide to spend their vacations near water.

Birds will be everywhere, building nests, laying eggs, shrieking, croaking, howling, hopping about, filling up the sky with their airmen journeying hither and hither, posing for pictures and showing off for the amazement of people who never quite get accustomed to their presence and consequently make a big fuss over them. The annual ordeal of the birds and the bird lovers is with us again. Tweet, tweet!

Magnetic Control for Trains in Fog

By The Associated Press

LONDON—While Britain was covered by this year's worst fog, early-morning commuters aboard a train from Shoeburyness, at the mouth of the Thames, reached London on-time, without a hitch. Their train was guided by a new magnetic control device. Impervious to fog, the mechanism stops trains before they arrive at a danger signal by sounding a horn in the engine cab and slowly applying the brakes.

The new safety equipment has been fitted to 183 locomotives on the rail lines from London to the east coast.

Owl Espionage

The British Admiralty has loaned a bird watcher, Eric Hosking, special equipment to enable him to find out what kind of face an owl makes when it hoots.

The equipment consists of a black searchlight—an infrared ray device developed during the war so that troops could see in the dark without being seen.

Mr. Hosking has a spot in a tree in Sussex for his nightly observations. Unseen—he hopes—by the owls, he'll watch them by telescope.

Easter, Its Significance

A Sermonette

SOME great days in Holy Writ! It was a great day when Noah came out of the ark and built an altar and made an offering to the Lord. Then the Lord made a covenant with him that He would never again destroy the earth with a flood and set the rainbow as a sign of that covenant.

It was a great day when Moses led the children of Israel through the Red Sea, out of Egyptian bondage, on the seventh day after the lamb was taken up on the tenth of Abib, the new month and new year for Israel (Ex. 12). And God sanctified Israel, that is, set them apart as a separate, distinct nation, and made a covenant with them, and gave them the seventh day Sabbath as a sign of this covenant, and their deliverance from Egypt (Ex. 31:13) (Deut. 5:15) (Ezek. 20:19,20).

It was a great day when Christ was born, and the angel of the Lord announced to the shepherds of His birth, and the multitude of heavenly hosts praised God, saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

It was a great day when Jesus hung on the cross, suffering, bleeding and dying, for the sins of the world, forsaken by men and forsaken by God, for the time being, as He was bearing our sins in His own body on the tree, and God could not look upon sin with favor, so turned His face from Him. Hear Jesus as He cried with a loud voice, "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?" This is the cry of a lost soul—oh, the awfulness of sin. And when He cried the second time, He yielded up the ghost, and the veil of the temple was rent from top to bottom, and the earth quaked, and the rocks rent, and graves were opened. Surely this was a great day, never to be forgotten while time lasts, for Christ who was innocent, suffered for the guilty, to redeem us from our sins. Therefore the Lord's Supper was instituted to be kept in remembrance of this great event.

The next great day we wish to notice is the Resurrection day, that Easter Sunday morning, when Jesus broke the bonds of death asunder and rose a conqueror over death, hell and the grave, and became the first fruits of them that slept.

These other days mentioned were great days, but not to be compared to the Resurrection day, because on it hinges all our hopes and aspirations of a future life. The Resurrection day is the grandest day recorded in all the Gospel.

On this day Jesus established the fact of His Resurrection, and a future life, and so confirmed all the promises of God and the hope of the church, by His Resurrection (Acts 17:31).

On this day He was declared to be the Son of God, by His Resurrection from the dead (Rom. 1:4).

On the first day He repeatedly appeared to His disciples. Therefore it became a day of joy and gladness, and as such it has since been celebrated.

On this day, the first day of the week, the disciples were begotten again to a lively hope, by His Resurrection (1 Pet. 1:3).

On this day many of the dead saints arose, death was conquered, the grave overcome, the devil defeated, salvation secured, earth and heaven were made glad.

On this day Jesus ascended to heaven and sprinkled His own blood upon the golden altar (Heb. 9:12), by which we are redeemed. (1 Pet. 1:18,19) He also received all power in heaven and on earth.

On this day Jesus blessed His disciples and bestowed upon them the gift of the Holy Ghost.

CHRIST in You, THE HOPE of Glory

THE TRIUMPHAL ENTRY

Luke 19:38. "Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord."

JESUS changed His policy of avoiding undue publicity and deliberately placed Himself in the public eye.

On the tenth day of Nisan the families of Israel separated their Passover lambs from the flocks; and for the next four days the eyes of all Israel were on the Passover lamb. Each family had its own lamb. Then on the fourteenth day of the month the lamb was publicly slain at the time of the evening sacrifice.

At the same time that the Passover lamb was separated from the flock, Jesus the Lamb of God, drew the eyes of all Israel by His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. The Jewish leaders were plotting to put Jesus to death secretly, but it was in the divine plan that our Lord's sufferings and death upon the cross should receive the greatest possible publicity.

Some day the true followers of Christ will rejoice even as the disciples on Palm Sunday . . . the day when He shall come the second time and "every eye shall see Him." "Watch and pray."

Instructions Given on Caulking, an Important Aid to House Maintenance

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW
by W. Wadsworth Wood

It is probably not an exaggeration to say that but one out of a thousand homeowners know what caulking means; although the United States government, in a pamphlet issued by the department of commerce, makes the statement that caulking is sometimes more important to the maintenance of a house than painting.

To make a long story short, caulking consists of filling the joints which the ordinary shrinkage of average building materials produce. In other words, when you build a house of wood, you are apt to have quite some shrinkage of lumber, and it will result in gaps and openings which ordinary painting will not take care of. When you build a house of brick or stone, there will be shrinkage between the lines where brick meets wood windows or door-frames, or where stone meets steel or aluminum sash. As a matter of fact, there will be shrinkage any place where different materials meet, for the simple reason that all materials have a different co-efficient of expansion and contraction which a skim of paint for four skims of paint cannot hope to cope with. It is in these joints, that a light bead of caulking-compound will work wonders and do so much toward preserving the exterior of the house against deterioration.

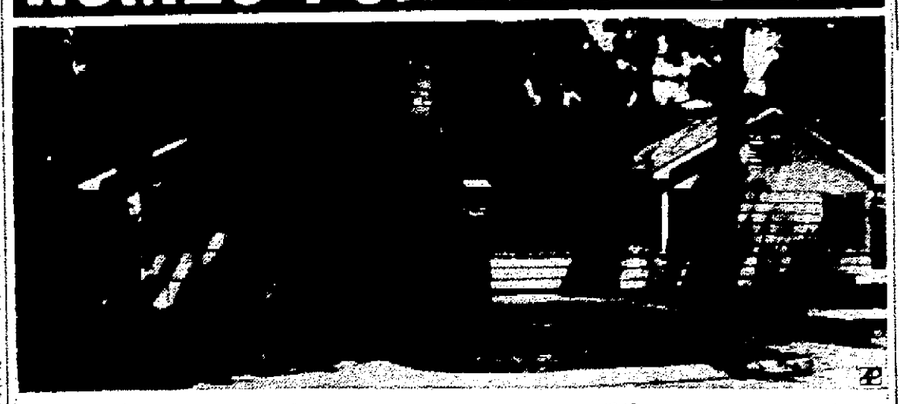
Caulking-compound is composed of a plastic mixture preferably non-drying, which can be forced into open joints with a caulking-gun as illustrated, or with a putty-knife. There are no less than six or eight good caulking compounds on the market, and 40 years of experience in the building field have demonstrated that the compounds based on either petroleum or castor-oil are the most satisfactory. If you doubt our word, simply buy a jar of vaseline (which is refined petroleum) leave the cover off for the next 30 years, and we will guarantee that the contents will still be plastic, workable and water-proof after that length of time. You can also leave a bottle of castor-oil open for the same period of time without undue evaporation or hardening of the contents. There are other non-evaporating and non-hardening oils, but we prefer those with which we have had good experience.

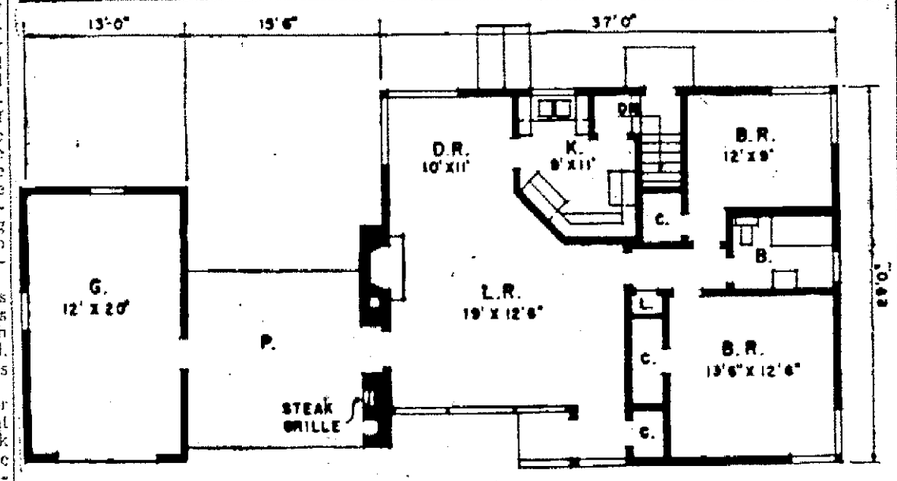
Good calking practice consists merely of filling the open joints in the exterior of a house with a neat bead of calking-compound. A close inspection of the walls will show where it is needed.

The usual spots to inspect for repair, are around the basement or cellar windows, where brick terraces or steps meet a stone foundation wall, or where windows or doors are set into masonry.

An excellent home-made caulking-compound can be produced by heating a jar of vaseline, and adding enough asbestos cement to produce a stiff mixture. When this is chilled it will be waterproof, plastic, and adhesive. Those are the three essentials in a good caulking-compound.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS





FLOOR PLAN PLAN 5R-29

By The Associated Press

A rambling house with square plan economy, this design 5R-29 by Elmer Gylleck, 120½ South Grove avenue, Elgin, Ill., offers the low roof lines of the popular ranch house style. A steak grill on the breezeway porch is an interesting detail. The door to the porch is through the massive stone chimney. Open plan for living room and dining room creates a spacious area for entertaining. With full basement, this house contains 19,000 cubic feet, exclusive of garage. The architect suggests forced warm air, or forced hot water heat, exterior walls of wood siding and a roof of wood or asphalt shingles.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Cleaning Mantel Piece

Q: How can I wash white stone mantel? I always used a wire-brush. But that makes an awful dust. I was told that there is some kind of acid to wash the stone with that makes it clean and white. Will you tell me what kind of acid this is and how to use it?

A: It may be muriatic acid, which is extremely corrosive and hardly safe for you to handle. I advise you to scrub the stone with very hot water containing about a cupful of trisodium phosphate in a pailful of water, then rinse with clear water. (Get the "triso" at a large store, or at a grocery store where it is sold under a trade name; it is a soapless cleaning powder.) Wet the stone with clear water before scrubbing it. Surface, loose dust or soot should first be carefully dusted off. Stubborn spots can generally be taken out with scratchless scouring powder.

Glare in Church Window

Q: There is a large window in our church which admits the bright rays of the sun. We do not care to use curtains or blinds. Can you tell us how to soften the glare?

A: If a stained glass window is beyond the budget of the congregation, you might be able to get a special frosting liquid that is intended to make glass partly opaque. If you cannot get this product, you can simulate a ground-glass effect by patting the glass with a lump of putty softened with a little linseed oil, repeat after 24 hours for drying. This coating can be washed with soap or water, and if you wish to remove it entirely you can do so with ammonia. You can also buy sheets of imitation stained glass (a paper product) that can be stuck over the window.

From Foundation to Roof Ridge... A single RILCO LAMINATED RAFTER

Greater Strength...Wind Resistant

MORE USABLE SPACE!

RILCO Rafter Arches, because they combine wall and roof into a single unit, offer a continuous framing member from foundation to roof ridge. This form of construction eliminates the joining of roof to sidewall which is the weakest point of ordinary construction; gives a stronger, wind resistant building. More usable space results because the interior is virtually free of posts and braces.

RILCO glued laminated wood rafters are engineered for the job—for gothic arch barns, machine sheds, poultry and hog houses, other farm structures—delivered ready for correct assembly in a few hours. Anyone handy with tools can build right with these modern, factory-built rafters.

Come in and talk it over! We'll give you the facts on building better by building the Rilco way. Ask for Free Rilco Folder.

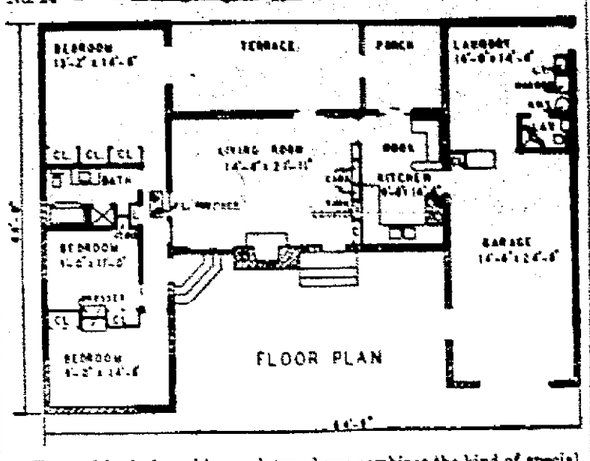
HOME OF THE MONTH

No. 24



Unusual in design, this ranch type home combines the kind of special built-ins every home owner dreams of with utmost convenience for gracious, modern living. A separate entrance for the bedroom wing keeps extra traffic off the living area which has its own front entrance and rear exit to the wide terrace. The garage and utility wing offers the same facility of traffic with individual outdoor entrance to laundry and openings to garage from outdoors, laundry and kitchen. The rear porch offers an ideal outdoor dining spot with a direct doorway to the compact kitchen and snack nook.

All bedrooms have exceptional closet and storage space with built-in dressers forming part of the storage wall. The living room also has a storage wall of built-in cabinets and through-counter to the kitchen for step saving in serving. A bank of picture windows forms the rear wall of this living area, opening with utmost privacy upon the sheltered terrace. There is ample room in the laundry for setting up hobby or recreational activities, and a handy lavatory that can keep a noisy party entirely isolated from the sleeping wing of the house.

This home was designed for PRACTICAL BUILDER Magazine, Chicago 3, by Arthur C. Austin of Zephyrhills, Fla. WORKING PLANS ARE NOT AVAILABLE.

ARMY DAY PLANS PRESSED IN MARION

Parade To Be Feature of April 6 Observance.

Plans are going forward for the observance of Army Day, Tuesday, April 6, it was announced today by Captain John Mills, army advisory committee chairman. A parade has been scheduled for 7:30 o'clock in the evening and joining Marion county veterans will be reserve units from nine counties. The theme of Army Day is "A Strong America Is a Peaceful America."

Plans include exhibits of souvenirs and mementoes in the downtown windows. All former service men are asked to contact Lt. Chester Crimm at the Army Recruiting office.

Pointing out that Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall is asking that the day be celebrated with the American people determined that the United States "make every effort to be so well prepared" that there will never be another war.

Although the methods of the Army progress, its mission never changes, and that mission is the protection of the right of the people of the United States to live in a free democracy, the Army secretary emphasizes.

The Army is carrying on that mission today in all its stations throughout the world, the secretary's statement continues. It is sharing in the honorable tradition of all those who have ever worn the United States uniform for the same purpose in the past. "Under present world conditions, a strong Army is needed to guarantee the peace. It must be buttressed by a strong, healthy, educated population, industrial resources ready for movilization for emergency use, and a national reserve of trained manpower.

"In celebrating Army Day this year, on the anniversary of our country's entrance into the first of two World Wars, we must make every effort to be so well prepared that there will never be a third," the secretary states.

The first monument to the memory of George Washington is believed to have been erected in Boonsboro, Md., in 1827.

Where silent trees await the dusk
And soft winds creep and play,
Where quiet shadows gather around

At rest, he'll greet each shining dawn

FOREST FIRE DANGERS IN OHIO AREAS CITED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 20—Observers in fire towers and on airplane patrols anxiously scanned today the forest lands in southeastern Ohio. The forest fire season was on.

State and federal officials joined in a plea to the public for greater care to prevent forest fires. C. Lewis Harrison of Columbus, supervisor of Wayne National Forest, and John A. Bastion of Chillicothe, in charge of forest fire control for the Ohio division of forestry, warned against carelessness.

Just plain carelessness and incendiarism, they said, caused all but two of the 767 forest fires in Ohio last year. The fires burned over 16,315 acres causing around $50,000 damage to timber and untold destruction of wildlife, recreation grounds and soil cover.

Reports of forest fires in Ohio now are being received each dry day, Harrison said. The volume of fires will reach a peak in the next two months before tapering off around May 15, when full vegetation helps keep down fires.

GI JUMPER QUIZZED BY BERLIN RUSSIANS

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, March 20 — A [illegible] who parachuted into the S[illegible] sector of Berlin said Friday [illegible] Russians asked him "a whole [illegible] of foolish questions" before releasing him.

The soldier—Sgt. Ray L. Dudley, formerly of Piggott, Ark. and San Francisco—was crew chief of the C-47 from which two Americans jumped yesterday after it developed engine trouble.

Five of the jumpers suffered injuries which required hospital treatment. A sergeant whose name is withheld is in a critical condition with a skull fracture.

Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, U. S. chief counsel at the Nuremberg war crimes trials, chipped a small bone in his back when he landed in a Berlin street. His wife sustained a minor leg injury.

Dudley landed atop a seven-story building in the Russian sector and dislocated a shoulder.

He was rescued by Germans who "wanted to get me back in the American sector without letting the Russians know about my presence."

"But they couldn't manage it," he said, "because a lot of German policemen came along to me to a German hospital and then notified the Russians."

When his shoulder had been set, Dudley said, two Russian soldiers took him to Soviet headquarters for questioning.

Number of applicants seeking employment through the Marion office increased 10 per cent from Feb. 1 to March 1, from 801 to 880. The number of female job seekers remained practically the same—263 on Feb. 1 and 274 on March 1.

Of the 606 men seeking employment, the greatest number are either unskilled or inexperienced. Twenty-six per cent or 160 are semi-skilled, 23 per cent or 141 are skilled, 7 per cent or 43 are clerical, and 7 per cent or 43 are service workers.

Women Applicants

Of the 274 women seeking employment through the OSES, 28 per cent or 76 are in the semi-skilled classifications, 22 per cent or 61 are in the unskilled classifications, 21 per cent or 57 are in the service classifications, 17 per cent or 47 are in the clerical and sales occupations and 2 per cent or 7 are without experience and need additional training and/or experience to be classed in a specific classification.

Average weekly number of claimants increased 30 per cent over January from 493 in January to 642 in February. The February figure was 80 per cent greater than the 1947 peak in December of 355, and was the highest since April, 1946. Less than one-half as many claimants were registered one year ago as currently.

A further indication of declining employment in Marion can be seen in the fact that separations have been exceeding hires since June, 1947. The hiral rate per 100 workers for Marion was under the state hiral rate per 100 workers which was 4.0 for the state, and Marion's separation rate per 100 workers in December was higher than the state rate of 5.0.

Young People's Choir Sings at Calvary Revival

A young people's choir of 25 voices sang at the revival service of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church Thursday night. Elmer Harruff was choir director, and Mrs. Fred Dutt was accompanist. Host and hostesses for the special invitations to the services were Virgil Hinamon, Mrs. Irwin Jobe and Miss Rose Marie Hinamon. For tonight, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baker, Mrs. Grace Zachman and Miss Marguerite Price will act in this capacity. Rev. W. L. Mullet of Walhonding, the evangelist, directed congregational singing. He read Scripture from the fifth chapter of Luke. In his message he declared.

"Man by his own nature loves darkness rather than light. God wants man to hate darkness and love the light. Man was created for power. God designed him for power. The devil offers man power by the right of self-assertion. God offers power to man on an entirely opposite basis, that of self-surrender."

Bible Study from 10 to 11 a. m. will be resumed next Tuesday morning.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

THE cost of new homes today is higher than the wages of sin. Higher than my sin fetches anyway.

But there are many other things wrong with modern houses besides the price. One is that they are designed by architects rather than by poets and other artists in human understanding.

Architects are fine for building cathedrals, skyscrapers, ticket booths, and glorified hot dog stands. But for a place to live in—let's consult somebody like Shakespeare:

"I was in love with my bed."

Or Guy de Maupassant, who wrote with true French insight:

"The bed comprehends our whole life, for we were born in it, we live in it, and we shall die in it."

Hal Boyle

These men don't prate like architects of secondary things like land drainage, gables, wall insulation or tile colors. They get right down to bedrock — in this case the bed, which is the most important piece of furniture in the home.

Therefore the home should be built around the bed. You can do everything in bed except ski. And a lot of people who try to ski do end up in bed for a long time.

PEOPLE HAVE RUN big businesses from beds. They have been graduated from college in bed. Mark Twain spent most of his later years dictating in bed while puffing on a big cigar. Madame du Barry used to receive the French court while lying abed. In old New England young couples conducted highly moral and intellectual courtships while bundled in bed. It was the only way they could keep warm. They had a fuel shortage in those days too.

Only custom and hypocrisy have made the living room more important than the bedroom. Why do men flee to night clubs and bars? Because there is nothing duller than sitting at home in a chair. A chair is only a compromise for people who pretend they are too ambitious to lie down but are still too lazy to stand on their own feet.

Sitting is an unnatural posture. I believe the home would again regain its popularity if they moved the bedroom into the living room and scattered more beds and couches around. We should take a tip from the Japanese also and make guests park their shoes at the door. Everybody has more fun with his shoes off.

IF I WERE DESIGNING a home the bedroom would be a huge central chamber between the kitchen and the bathroom. The largest bed—mine—would be by the window and high enough to look out. It would be made like a hospital bed so that you could crank yourself up and eat comfortably. Why a dining table at all? There would be a huge self-feeding fireplace operated by a button in a panel at the head of the bed.

This panel switchboard would also operate all lights. Within arm reach would be a small refrigerator, food and utensil cupboard and an electric hot plate. This would make it unnecessary to get up for breakfast.

All mail would be put in a box by the postman and swung in the window on a metal movable arm. It could be answered in bed. There then would be no point in going to the office until the afternoon. Books and a radio phonograph would be at hand. There would be a telephone at the bedside, but it wouldn't ring. It would only turn on a light. If I didn't want to answer it, I'd turn off the light.

ON ONE WALL I'd hang a dart board. The darts would have silk threads on them. I could pull them back and throw them without ever leaving bed.

That is the kind of a house I want. When somebody starts building them, I'll stand in line to buy one. I already have the beds.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

New Way of Taking Medicine

The so-called aerosol treatment, developed during the past few years, gives the doctor still another method of giving needed drugs by the simple means of having the patient breathe them.

The selection drug is put into solution which is then turned into a very fine mist by means of a highpower atomizer. By breathing this mist, the patient brings the drugs into the most inaccessible parts of the air passages and lungs.

Hospitals have special apparatus for converting the solution into a mist by blowing a current of oxygen through it. Simpler ones are now available for home use, though it should be said at the outset that the ordinary atomizer in current use will not do the trick since it does not give a fine enough spray to penetrate deeply into the air passages.

Aerosol therapy may be used for two purposes. One is to give the general effects of such a prepation as penicillin. When the penicillin is breathed into the lung, it is absorbed into the blood and thus may be effective in overcoming infections in various parts of the body. The aerosol penicillin may be used in the home when a nurse is not available to give the penicillin by injection.

However, the greatest effects are obtained from the action of the penicillin on the lung tissues. Thus, it may be employed in the treatment of infections of the trachea or wind pipe, the bronchi or tubes in the lungs, and pneumonia, which is an infection of the lung tissues.

Chronic or long-continued infection of the lungs also may be aided by this form of treatment. For example, it is used in chronic bronchitis and in bronchiectasis, a condition in which the bronchi are dilated or enlarged.

Sometimes, in cases of bronchiectasis, operations are required for removal of a portion of the affected lung. Prior to operation, aerosol treatment may be extremely useful in reducing the dangers of the operative procedures.

Substances other than penicillin may be given in the form of an aerosol. In certain conditions, such as chronic bronchitis, there may be a collection of excessive amounts of mucus in the bronchi, and swelling of the lining membrane. The giving of epinephrine in the form of an aerosol may aid greatly in shrinking these lining membranes, and getting rid of the mucus, and opening up the air passages.

Aerosol administration of epinephrine may also be employed in the treatment of asthma. It would seem that this form of treatment for asthma is not employed as often as it might be.

A Reader: Is tuberculosis of the bones hereditary? Is it catching?

Answer: Tuberculosis of the bones is not hereditary nor is it a catching disorder unless the patient has tuberculosis of the lungs and expels these germs while coughing.

NONE HURT AS FLYER AND FREIGHT COLLIDE

By International News Service

PLYMOUTH, Ind., March 20—The Pennsylvania railroad's Chicago-to-New York Gotham limited rammed head-on today into a westbound freight at Plymouth, Ind., derailing both engines and blocking the two main-line tracks.

No one was killed or injured.

The 13-car passenger train, second section of the flyer, left Chicago at 12:20 a. m. (EST) and was due at New York at 3:35 p. m. (EST). All cars remained upright. Only the two engines left the tracks.

Both east and westbound rails were torn up by the accident. The passenger train was passing eastbound train No. 44 when the accident occurred. Officials said the diesel-powered limited was traveling slowly when it struck the freight train.

Patrolman John Smotherman of the Plymouth police said the freight had overrun a siding switch onto the main line.

American cigaret consumption more than quadrupled between 1921 and 1941.

By BILL MURPHY

Titles in the Golden Gloves championship finals last night at the armory were won by fighters from five different cities.

Galion, dominating the bouts with four winners, including the lightweight, middleweight, bantamweight and flyweight.

A Marionite, Jack Sekinger, captured the welterweight title, Joe Neidig of Galion the lightweight crown, and Lawrence Strahm of Carey the featherweight championship.

A capacity crowd of approximately 900 spectators jammed the armory to watch 11 boxers punish each other around the ring in the 17 bout card.

They sat for six hours, applauding sharp punches, booing low blows, and smiling at the antics of the peppermints.

Although no knockouts were scored, fans, handlers and newspapermen thought that five matches in general, and the Neidig-Combs lightweight go in particular were of a high caliber for A. A. U. fighting. Joe Neidig, weighing-in at 124½ and Carroll Combs, 126, staged a bloody slugging match which ended in an unanimous decision for the purple trunked Neidig.

Starting fast, the fighters pummelled each other with hard body punches in the first of the first round, but then settled down to feeling each other out and split about even, with Neidig taking the round by a narrow margin.

Still Aggressor

Neidig, still the aggressor in the second round, found Combs with a left and a right to the nose that brought blood, and Combs did the same for Neidig, as the fighters stood in the center of the ring and traded punches.

In the third, Combs, firing rapidly, was an easy mark for the well conditioned Neidig, and he took a terrific pounding about the face before the scrap ended.

Charles Farina, 159½, of Galion took a split decision from Ernest Arcuri, 157½ of Marion for the middleweight crown, winning the first two rounds, but slowing down as Arcuri came on in the third. Fighting in this bout was rough and tough with both boxers throwing everything they had into each blow in trying for a ko.

A picture boxer, Jack Sekinger, 142, battled another Marion boy, Harold Waits, 144½ a slugger, and took the welterweight title with a beautiful exhibition of boxing skill. Waits may have been at a disadvantage, having fought Buck Rogers earlier in the evening, but it's doubtful if he could have kept away from Sekinger's left even if he hadn't. Sekinger demonstrated a sharp, well timed left and backed it with an effective right.

Just Too Good

Lawrence Strahm, 126, of Carey, fighting Lowell Price, 127, of Galion and Marion Wirick, 127, also of Galion was just too good for the competition as he added the featherweight crown to the same title last year, and the bantam championship the year before. Neither boy had anything much more than courage, and Strahm dumped them to the canvas regularly.

Fighting in the novice class of the featherweight division, Richard James, 122, of Marion showed promise of being the best boxer to come out of Marion in a long time. He dropped Bill Kaaua, 121, of Delaware so often in three rounds that it would have been almost monotonous, if he hadn't been so good at it. James carries a punch in both hands, a stance that is flawless, and an attitude toward boxing that indicates he is going to be hard to stop in future matches.

Young Bobby Hunt, 66½, decisioned Delbert Huntsman, 62½, both of Marion, in the paperweight class with a display of boxing that included the ability to dance, jab, hook, clinch, cover, measure a man, roll with a blow and think in the ring. With a few more years and a few more pounds, Hunt should develop into a boxer of rare ability. Willard Carwile, 88, of Marion, also a paperweight fighter is another who would outbox most of last night's contenders with a little weight on him.

Win Without Fighting

Al Treisch, flyweight, of Galion and Salvedore Madrino, light heavyweight champs were awarded the titles without fighting, Treisch lacking a match, and Madrino winning on a forfeit. Both boys drew byes in the first two days of fighting.

The eight champions, fighting in the state tournament March 29 and 30, will leave from the Y. M. C. A. at 1 p. m. Monday March 29.

A banquet for all winners and runners up in the local tournament will be held at the Y. M. C. A., under the auspices of the Y's Men's club Thursday night at 6 p. m. when trophies and awards will be presented to the champions and runners-up in each class. The Joe Louis-Joe Walcott fight pictures will be shown.

ATOMIC PRODUCTION SETS LIVELY PACE

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, March 20—The United States is making atomic bombs on a scale calculated to meet any emergency, an authoritative source said today. This source said bomb production was being pushed long before President Truman made his stop-Russia preparedness speech to congress this week.

He pointed out that the Atomic Energy Act of 1946 declares the paramount responsibility of the Atomic Energy commission to be "assuring the common defense and security." "Bomb production," he added, "Never has been on a 'peacetime' basis. It can be assumed that it is going ahead full blast." For that reason, he continued, it is unlikely that the Atomic Energy commission will have to go to congress for any extra money in order to keep pace with preparedness efforts on other fronts.

The commission, he said, asked for and received in current appropriations enough money not only to manufacture bombs at capacity but also to improve production methods and weapons designs. This is in line with frequently repeated statements of recent months by Chairman David E. Lilienthal and other commission members.

Since the commission took over the $3,000,000,000 atomic project on Jan. 1, 1947, developments in weapon design have made it necessary to set up a secret proving ground at Eniwetok atoll in the western Pacific. Test installations have been built and tests have been or are about to be carried out.

KENTUCKY FAVORED OVER HOLY CROSS

Kansas State Gets Nod Over Baylor in West.

By The United Press

NEW YORK, March 20—The tall and terrific Kentucky Wildcats were five-point favorites to beat the short but slick Crusaders of Holy Cross tonight in the eastern regional finals of the N.C.A.A. basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden.

In Kansas City, Kansas State was favored over Baylor in the final round of the western contests.

Both Kentucky and Holy Cross were highly regarded as scoring and defending machines, but to the men who lay the odds it was the Kalmuck height that made the difference.

With six-foot, seven-inch Alex Groza at center and six-foot-four Wallace (Wah Wah) Jones assisting, the Wildcats figured to get most of the rebound. And in a clash of powerful, ponderous teams that has the ball most often is likely, as a matter of logic to score the most points.

Holy Cross now finds itself in the underdog position, an odd role for a defending champion. To make up for their height deficiency, the canny Crusaders will offer some nipper-clipper basketball of the old school with the same kind of precision passing that carried St. Louis university to victory in the National Invitational tournament.

Spearhead of the Worcester, Mass., attack is Bob Coury, sure-shot forward who was his team's high-scorer during the regular season, closely trailed by Kaftan.

In the opening game on tonight's program, a consolation affair, Michigan was a two-point favorite over Columbia.

In Kansas City tonight, Baylor's Bears face classy Kansas State in the final round of the western regionals. The winner of that tussle will come to New York for a showdown with the Kentucky-Holy Cross winner for the national N.C.A.A. title on Tuesday night.

Both tonight's winner in the Garden and in Kansas City will qualify for the Olympic trials later this month.

Canada's three leading industries are agriculture, mining and forestry.

Surprise Pollak Quint Drops Carey, 47-41 in "Y" Gold Medal Tourney

Pollak Steel turned up with a surprise package in the Y.M.C.A. Gold Medal tournament last night. Pollak Manager Fred Gelbaugh had made the shrewd move of signing up three St. Mary cagers after they were through playing with the school, and with that help, Pollak dumped the Carey Bureaus, 47-41. The new blood proved their worth by counting 40 points between them, John Balduf made 18, Dick Drake, 13, and Bob Stuber nine.

In other tournament games Scribner won in a breeze from the Vet Leaguers, 36-23; McMillen walked over Martel Elevator, 54-38; and Commercial Steel drove past Fairpass V.F.W. in the second half rally, 65-47.

Commercial and Fairpass battled on even terms until Blackberry came in in the second quarter, when the entire Commercial style of play changed and they forged out front. Fairpass played a loose zone defense in the hopes of intercepting back court passes for quick baskets, but it didn't work last night. Their scoreboard neutral, Von Ins, didn't play with them.

Tonight, Roxy Grill meets Universal Cooler on the upper floor at 7:00 p. m. while Claridon Exhi's battle the tough Prospect All Stars on the lower floor. At 8:00, Tiffin Benns engage the Prospect Merchants on the upper court while the Ada Farmers Exchange runs into Schlairet Transfer.

SHORTEST MAIN EVENT SET ON GARDEN BOOKS

By International News Service

NEW YORK, March 20—The shortest main event in history was on the Madison Square Garden record books today.

The bout lasted only 54 seconds as ancient Lee Savold needed just one withering right cross to stand Gino Buonvino of Bari, Italy, on his head.

Savold, 32, was filling in for Joe Baksi against the Italian heavyweight, who hadn't lost any of ten previous U. S. starts.

PASSES BAR EXAMS

MT. GILEAD, March 20—Gale B. Weller of Mt. Gilead was notified last week that he had successfully passed the Ohio State bar examination early in February. Weller graduated with an L.L.B. degree from Ohio Northern university. He was sworn in by Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio State Supreme court in ceremonies at Columbus. His grade of 80.7 was in the upper 10 per cent.

Reds Have Blackwell, but Need More Mound Strength To Reach Goal of 1st Division Finish

By FRANK ECK
AP Sportswriter

TAMPA, Fla. — On paper, the Cincinnati Reds are one of the most improved teams in the National league this spring.

After talking with Manager Johnny Neun it is simple to deduct that he has his sights set on the first division. The Reds finished fifth last season, 21 games back of the Brooklyn Dodgers and eight behind the fourth place New York Giants.

With the talent on hand at Plant Field here the Reds could be the big surprise of a wide-open National league flag chase.

EWELL BLACKWELL

KENT PETERSON

Hurling Stalwart and Two Hopefuls

Changed Man

Neun is a changed man. This time last spring it was difficult to get him to talk. He was new to the league and was taking his first whack at running a big league team. Now the former Yankee coach is only too glad to tell the numerous baseball writers in Florida just what is on his mind.

"My big job is the pitching staff," says Neun. "Of course, we all know what Ewell Blackwell can do."

Blacky is only 25 and may go on to become a great pitcher over the years. The six-six 190-pounder with the buggy whip arm won 22 games and lost eight to lead both leagues last season. He appears in great shape despite losing 10 pounds following an attack of influenza.

"The rest of the pitching staff is potentially good," says Neun. "We believe Tommy Hughes, obtained when we dealt Bert Haas to the Phillies, will help. So will Howard Fox, 27, and a 19-game winner for Syracuse. Ed Erautt, Everett Lively and Kent Peterson did not have the durability last season although they pitched sensationally in spots. They may develop.

Vander Meer, Walters, Too

"Then there's Johnny Vander Meer, Bucky Walters, Ken Raffensberger and Harry Gumbert, one of the best relief pitchers in the league."

Neun plans to carry 10 or 11 pitchers. Others who have a good chance of sticking are Herman Wehmeier, 15-game Syracuse winner; Walker Cress, 15-game victor at New Orleans, and John Hetki, a spot hurler who often relieves.

Neun is practically set on his opening day infield. The big question is second base where Bobby Adams, 26, and Benny Zientara, 28, are engaged in battle. Adams outhit Zientara, .272 to .258, but the Red bosses still recall that Zientara led the team in hitting with .289 during 1946.

Tom Stallcup is being counted on for the shortstop post left vacant by Eddie Miller's trade to the Phils. Behind Stallcup is Claude Corbitt, who hit .298 for Syracuse and has had chances in Brooklyn and Cincinnati.

"Everything you have been hearing about Stallcup appears true," says Neun. "His record indicates a fine future."

Stallcup hit .304 for Roanoke, Va., in 1946 and after a trial here last spring he was optioned to Jersey City where he batted .338, including 15 home runs.

Third base belongs to Grady Hatton who has hit .271 and .281 in his two seasons with the Reds, his only two years in organized ball. First base is Babe Young's. Obtained from the Giants last June, Young hit .283 in 95 games, hitting 14 homes and batting in 79 runs. Ted Kluszewski, 220-pound slugger who batted .377 for Memphis, undoubtedly will be optioned out for further seasoning. He is only 23 and needs more polish in the field.

Improved in Field

The big improvement in the Reds is in the outfield.

"This time a year ago I didn't know that Frankie Baumholtz could do. Now I know he's my right fielder. He hit .283 as a freshman and he's one of the top three rookies in the league."

Neun figures on the veteran Augie Galan and Hank Sauer for left field. They bat from opposite sides of the plate. Galan's .314 was fourth in the league while Sauer was the International league's most valuable player. He hit 50 home runs and five more in the Shaughnessy playoffs and Little World Series. Sauer's .336 mark was one point off the league leader.

"If I don't make the grade this time, I'll quit," says Sauer.

Center field may fall to Johnny Wyrostek, late of the Phils, although Neun is also trying Clyde Vollmer, Marvin Rickert, ex-Cub, and Bob Usher.

The Reds are set in catching with Ray Lamanno as No. 1 and Ray Mueller behind him. The No. 3 spot is wide open between Ferrell Anderson, ex-Dodger who managed Fort Worth last year, Dewey Williams, ex-Cub, and Hugh Poland, who has been with four clubs in the circuit.

"If there's any one on this team who believes we can't finish higher than fifth, I don't want him playing for me," is Neun's warning note to his players following the recent Eddie Miller blast. Miller said the Reds were a last place club and today he's with the Phillies.

Glenford Slaughters Bremen, 61-36; Findlay Defeats Mansfield Madis

By JOHN BARRINGTON
International News Service Sports Writer

The last barrier to a state tournament berth was at hand for 16 sturdy high school basketball survivors, who meet in class A and B regional tourney finals tonight.

Findlay's unbeaten Trojans, who recorded their 24th straight victory, led the way in qualifying hats last night by defeating Mansfield Madison, 47 to 37.

The last remaining undefeated class B quintet fell from the ranks, however, in a game that extended its opponent. Glenford, as the team to beat for the state title.

Hursey Scores 24

Glenford, led by brilliant Glen Hursey, slaughtered Bremen, 61 to 36, for its 34th victory in 35 games. Hursey scored 24 points as the 1941 state champs pricked Bremen's 37-game bubble.

By winning, Glenford qualified for tonight's final tilt at Athens, with Lucasville, a 51-to-42 conqueror of Dresden last night. Lucasville has won 23 and lost six.

Findlay will be opposed in the Saturday class A finale by Toledo Central Catholic, which bowled over Bowling Green, 66 to 44. Central Catholic's record is 22 wins and four losses.

Other regional finals tonight:

Class A—At Cincinnati, Hamilton Catholic (25-1) vs. Miamisburg (14-6); at Youngstown, Canton McKinley (19-2) vs. Canton South (22-1); at New Concord, Coshocton (18-5) vs. Akron South (15-2).

Class B—at Youngstown, North Canton (22-5) vs. Midvale (23-3); at Springfield, Eaton (20-2) vs. Lockland Wayne (26-2); at Toledo, Lima St. Rose (26-2) vs. Holgate (20-5).

Eaton, which has mowed down several class A schools including Miamisburg, had the hardest struggle among last night's class B quarterfinals. The Preble countians had to go an overtime period to edge once-beaten Enon, 47 to 45.

Barely Squeeze By

Miamisburg, the team that astounded state cage circles by upsetting defending champions Middletown last week, barely squeezed past Cincinnati Walnut Hills, 40 to 39, last night.

In other class A games, Akron South looked very sharp in blasting Portsmouth, 57 to 31; Canton South stamped itself as a definite factor by rolling over Stow, 54 to 19, and Canton McKinley disposed of Cleveland Heights in handy fashion, 44 to 37.

Although it couldn't match mighty Findlay's all-round prowess, Mansfield Madison's gallant "Cinderella" team did succeed in giving the Trojans the best argument they have received in any tourney game.

Findlay's previous victories in district play were over Galion, 72 to 21, Kenton, 71 to 28, Fostoria, 54 to 34, and Bucyrus, 55 to 26. That gives some idea of how completely the Trojans have dominated the northwestern Ohio scene.

Three Pictures Open Week at State

Three films, "Framed," starring Glenn Ford and Janis Carter, "Lone Star Moonlight" with Ken Curtis and Joan Barton, and a Three Stooges comedy, "Friday Night," will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State theater.

Billed as a double feature for Tuesday and Wednesday are "Song of the Thin Man" and "Stranger from Ponca City." The former stars William Powell and Myrna Loy, and heading the cast in the latter is Charles Starrett.

Morgan Conway and Anne Jeffreys are starred in "Dick Tracy vs. Cueball," the feature attraction of the billing for Thurday through Saturday. Completing the triple billing will be "Riders of Destiny" starring John Wayne, and "Helpmates" with Laurel and Hardy.

"South of Tahiti" At Marion Theater

"South of Tahiti" starring Brian Donlevy and Brad Crawford, and "Her Sister's Secret" with Margaret Lindsay, Nancy Coleman, Philip Reed and Felix Bressart will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Marion theater.

The later flim tells of a young wife who adopts her unmarried sister's baby.

Billed as a double feature for Wednesday and Thursday are "Hell's Devils" and "Torture Shop." The former stars Alan Ladd and heading the cast in the latter is Lyle Talbot.

A suspenseful mystery, "Bury Me Dead," and an exciting western drama, "Flashing Guns," have been billed as the attractions for Friday and Saturday.

"Bury Me Dead," the story of two sisters whose lives are shadowed by a murderer, stars Hugh Beaumont, Cathy O'Donnell, June Lockhart and Mark Daniels. "Flashing Guns," starring Johnny Mack Brown and Raymond Hatton with Jan Bryant, tells of the cowboy star who finds himself in conflict with desperate outlaws, who resort to forgery and gunplay to achieve their cunning schemes.

"Albuquerque" In Color at Palace

"Albuquerque," an outdoor action thriller filmed in cinecolor and set in the New Mexico town of the same name around the year 1878, will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Palace theater. Co-starred are Randolph Scott, Barbara Britton, George "Gabby Hayes and Lon Chaney.

The film tells of the arrival in town of Randolph Scott, a Texan, who has come to manage his uncle's freight business. He finds that the uncle is a scoundrel who has the town by the throat, and that the sheriff is in his pay as is a gang of law-breakers headed by Lon Chaney. Scott's uncle is determined that he will monopolize the lucrative freight business and to do that he will stop at nothing, including murder.

Scott breaks with him when he learns his tactics and joins forces with Russell Hayden and Catherine Craig, brother and sister, who have started a freight business, despite the obstacles.

Billed to be shown with "Albuquerque" is "Curley" starring Frances Rafferty, Larry Olsen, Eilene Janssen, Dale Belding, Gerald Perreau and others. This film is part one of "The Hal Roach Comedy Carnival," a new series of cinecolor comedy features.

"Curley" deals with a group of school children of the "Our Gang" strip who attempt to intimidate their new teacher.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the attractions will be "High Wall" and "Fabulous Joe." The latter is the second part of "The Hal Roach Comedy Carnival."

"High Wall," starring Robert Taylor, Audrey Totter and Herbert Marshall, is the story of a man who has to prove to himself that he is not a murderer. Robert Taylor plays Steven Kenet, suspected as a homicidal killer when his wife, played by Dorothy Patrick, is found strangled to death.

Placed in the mental ward of a prison hospital, Steve goes through an agony of indecision as to whether he had murdered his cheating wife or not, until tests made upon him by a doctor prove his sanity. When he discovers that the real murderer is his wife's boss, Steve establishes his innocence by forcing the boss to re-enact the crime before the police.

"Fabulous Joe" starring Walter Abel, Margot Grahame, Marie Wilson and Donald Meek, relates the dilemma caused by a prominent stock broker's exposure to the antics of his fabulous dog.

Revival at Calvary Continues Next Week

Revival meetings at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church will continue tomorrow and next week with Rev. W. L. Mullet of Walhonding as evangelist. Tomorrow will be observed as Decision day, and there will be baptism and dedication of infants at the morning service. In the evening, the Men's chorus will sing. Bible study from 10 a. m. until 11 at the church will be resumed Tuesday morning. There will be no revival service tonight.

At last night's service, a sextet composed of Mrs. R. W. Faulkner, Mrs. Viola Rinnert, Misses Mary Jane and Ruth Zachman, Mrs. Howard Lehner and Mrs. LeRoy Stull sang, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Dutt. Rev. Mullet had charge of the song service, and Rev. R. W. Faulkner, pastor, offered prayer. Host and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baker, Mrs. Charles Baber, Mrs. Tracy Zachman and Miss Marguerite Price.

In his message, Rev. Mullet said, "God is not looking for great personalities but for personalities that he can make great. Sin is not only evil practice, but evil intent and purpose. The light is shining but some of us refuse to see because we will not open our spiritual eyes."

DISCOVERED BY POLICE. Mary Reichel (left), 9, and Edna Bessie Dinsmore, 27, were found in a debris-littered house in Venice, Cal., and as a result two spinsters were jailed on charges of false imprisonment and inhuman treatment of their charges.

TORNADOES

added to the suffering and damage. Some towns in Illinois were isolated. Travel was impeded and communications disrupted in many areas.

Four small communities in Macoupin county, Ill., suffered the heaviest damage in loss of life and property and in the number injured.

Bunker Hill Flattened

In Bunker Hill, Ill., about 80 per cent of the town of 1,500 was flattened. The Red Cross said the death toll was 19—the most in any of the towns smashed by the tornadoes. Property damage was estimated at a half million dollars.

In nearby Fosterburg 13 persons were killed, scores injured and nearly all of the town's 100 homes and stores were wrecked or damaged. Five persons lost their lives in Gillespie and the estimated property damage in the city of 4,500 was about $300,000. The fourth Macoupin county town hard hit was Woodburn where four persons were killed. Several homes and stores in the village of 300 were destroyed.

Hospitals were taxed beyond capacity in the stricken Illinois area, 40 miles northeast of St. Louis. About 100 victims were taken to hospitals in nearby Alton and Litchfield, Ill.

The twister which struck the four communities first was reported at New Athens, Ill., where it cut a patch 300 feet wide through the business district. It hit Freeburg and touched at the edge of Alton before racing northeastward on its path of devastation.

Roar Across Mississippi

In the meantime, tornadoes roared through separated communities across the Mississippi river in Missouri. More than a score of persons were injured in the stricken area.

Later winds of gale proportions swept across widely scattered points in Indiana—in Rising Sun, Leo, Kokomo and Crawfordsville. Several persons suffered injuries and property damage was heavy.

Last night the rain and wind storms moved northeastward across Ohio. Pennsylvania and New York state. Winds in some areas reached a velocity of more than 70 miles an hour. Roofs were ripped from buildings, trees uprooted and public utility poles felled.

The federal weather bureau in Washington described the storms as a "partly seasonal" occurrence, most common in March, April, May and June. They come when there is a deep low pressure area in the midwest with movement around it. The storms nearly always hit east and southeast of the center, the bureau said.

Yesterday a huge low pressure area extended from the Rockies to the Appalachian. The center was around the Dakotas. The storm path—or "squall line"—spread from Alabama to the Great Lakes.

DISPLAYS FIREARMS

BUCYRUS, March 20—George Stoltz, Bucyrus patrolman and gun fancier, displayed several of his collection of approximately 600 firearms Thursday night when he addressed the Lions club on the subject of guns. He spoke on the various types of guns tracing developments since early models and also told of the methods used in ballistics tests.

Spring is a season of new hope—a time to forget the rigors of winter and turn to gardens, lawns, farm planting and home renovation and repairs.

How well we are prepared for cash outlay depends on how we have conserved resources and income. In any season, nothing should be allowed to interfere with cash savings from income—to be ready for whatever opportunities or emergencies are presented. We offer a safe, profitable plan to save.

Wyandot Co. Man Stages Hu... That Leads To Arrest of Tr...

Dale Culver, 26, Wyandot county farmer, was praised today by Sheriff LeRoy Retterer for his part in the apprehension Thursday night of three Marion men wanted for the theft of state owned drainage basin covers.

Culver, at 3 p. m. Thursday was sowing clover seed in a field on his farm, just over the Marion county line in Wyandot county north of Marion on route 23, when he observed three men in a blue truck stop at the edge of the field and load several drainage basin covers from the highway and two from his property.

He immediately returned to his home, got into his car and gave chase. He followed the truck south on route 23 and caught up with the truck at the entrance of the Scioto Ordnance property. He stopped and questioned the three men in the truck, saw the sewer covers in their vehicle, and asked them their names which they refused to give him. They then drove off into the Ordnance property grounds and disappeared.

Culver rushed to the court house and notified Sheriff Retterer who immediately returned with him to the ordnance property where a futile search for the men ensued. The sheriff then widened the field of search to include all previous offenders in his knowledge who used a truck in their operations.

Check License Number

Failing to locate the truck, a check was made with the state license bureau on Culver's version of the mud covered license number. This revealed the ownership of the truck, the property of a Cheney avenue resident. Following this lead the sheriff called on the truck owner who said he had loaned his truck to William Armstrong, 30, of Fies avenue. During his search for the truck the sheriff had uncovered the information that Armstrong, William Saunders, 22, and Charles Holycross, all of Fies avenue had been seen drinking together in a Little Sandusky tavern to which they came in a blue truck. Connecting the two identifications the [illegible] called city police who [illegible] Holycross in city jail for [illegible] cation. Questioned by the [illegible] Holycross admitted partici[illegible] in the theft and implicated accomplices.

Culver Finds Truck

Culver, continuing the [illegible] while the sheriff questioned H[illegible] cross, located the missing [illegible] parked on East Center street [illegible] reported this information to [illegible] sheriff.

Sheriff Retterer picked up A[illegible] strong and Saunders at [illegible] homes at 11 p. m. Thursday [illegible] lodged them in county jail [illegible] Holycross who was turned [illegible] to the county by city police.

A check yesterday with [illegible] officials revealed state owners [illegible] of the sewer covers. Further questioning of the trio Friday morn[illegible] by the sheriff completed the [illegible] vestigation, and they were turned over to the highway patrol for removal to Upper Sandusky to face charges of petit larceny this morning.

The covers had been sold [illegible] the men to a local junk dealer [illegible] a sum, said to be $13.

EXPLAINS VARIANCE IN VITAL STATISTICS RECORD

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, March 20—Reports recently compiled by the Wyandot County health office show births recorded in the county last year totaled 81 and deaths in the county from all causes totaled 188.

The apparent wide difference is explained in part said Dr. L. W. Naus health commissioner, by the practice of recording births of children of Wyandot county parents born in a hospital in another county, in the county where the hospital is located. Thus many children born to Upper Sandusky residents last year were reported in Crawford county because they were born in Bucyrus hospital.

This practice is reversed in dealing with death certificates which are filed in the county where the individual resided. Of the total of 188 deaths recorded, 105 were attributed to diseases of the heart, 25 to cerebral hemorrhage, 18 to cancer and seven to accidents.
